NU Picks Elliott

Oklahoman's Acceptance Expected

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star
Monday it became known officially that Pete Elliott, Oklahoma backfield coach, is the one and only choice for the University of Nebraska head football coaching job.

Athletic Director Bill Orwig made this clear when he told newsmen, "Pete is my No. 1 choice and I've encouraged him to come to Nebraska. I hope he will give us the answer we want after the Orange Bowl and I have every reason to believe he will."

Elliott, himself, indicated he would take the job and that he was very interested in Nebraska football. But because of the fact Oklahoma plays Maryland in the Orange Bowl Jan. 2, he did not want to say flatly that he would take the job.

"Oklahoma is my prime concern now and I want to be fair," Pete said. "I wouldn't want to make an announcement now because it might work a hardship on our boys."

It looks like Elliott will be the next coach. That was the general consensus among newsmen. And it also looks like Orwig has done another fine job as athletic director at Nebraska.

At the recent minor league baseball meeting at Columbus, Ohio, there was only one topic that was discussed more than the diamond game.

That question was, "Who's going to be the new Nebraska football coach?"

The answer had to be, "I don't know." Then without fail came the statement, "I understand Pete Elliott is in line."

This brought the reply, "He's certainly being considered and probably is the No. 1 candidate."

"The Best"

From there it was to the question and he always poured it on.

Baseball executives, players and managers from the southwest, as well as sporting goods salesmen and executives all agreed: "If you can get Elliott, you've got the best."

Bob Reynolds, general manager of the Oklahoma City club, paid a glowing tribute to Pete. He said: "He's certainly a fine coach and gentleman. I'd say some day he'll have a greater name than Bud Wilkinson. Certainly he is every bit as personable as Bud—and maybe even more so, and you know that's saying a lot. If Nebraska can sign Pete, I'd say it was getting the best young coach in America."

A sporting goods representative who knows Pete, said:

"If he were to walk in this room right now, everyone would stop and wonder who the good looking guy was. He's got a dynamic personality and makes an instant hit. In addition to being a great coach, and certainly one of the up-and-coming stars of the coaching profession, he's one of the nicest guys in the world. You get him and you've got something."

Great Future

These comments are just a sample of the fine things that were overheard at a baseball convention when the conversation drifted to the Nebraska football situation.

But they point up one thing. Pete Elliott is regarded by many people as a fine coach and gentleman with a great future.

And Bill Orwig's statement that Elliott is "my No. 1 choice" and "the only person I've contacted" is proof that the Nebraska athletic director is a good judge of coaching talent, wants the best for Nebraska and is leaving no stone unturned in an effort to improve Nebraska football.

Pete Elliott is considered the "best," Bill Orwig wants the "best" and the "best" is none too good for Nebraska.

Things were looking bright for the University of Nebraska athletic program Monday.

He Assured Her

JACKSON, Tenn. (AP)—A mother was astonished recently when her young son began his bedtime prayer with the solemn greeting, "Dear Howard."

"That's not God's name," protested the mother, Mrs. Rhea Newsum.

"Yes it is!" the boy assured her. "They taught us in Sunday school. 'Our father who art in heaven, Howard be Thy name.'"

Pete Elliott—He Will Decide Next Year

Pete Elliott, 29-year-old University of Oklahoma assistant coach and the probable successor to Bill Glassford as head coach at Nebraska, gestures during a talk with newsmen Monday. Elliott, revealed as Athletic Director Bill Orwig's choice for the Nebraska job, said he'll make his decision after Oklahoma plays Maryland in the Orange Bowl, Jan. 2, 1956. (Star Photo.)

Legislative Session On Institutions Suggested

FREMONT, Neb. (AP)—Difficulties in institutions under the Board of Control "may generate enough heat" to warrant the calling of a special session of the Legislature, State Sen. Earl J. Lee of Fremont said Monday.

Lee pointed out that the Board of Control is set up under the constitution and change or abandonment of the system would require an amendment voted on by the people.

A proposal to submit an amendment on abandoning the board to a vote of the people in 1956 was defeated by a small margin in the last legislative session, Lee said.

"It seems to me that if loss of key personnel continues something is going to have to be done,"

Batley, McNutt New Officers Of Nebraska Citizens Council

C. W. Batley, president of the Continental National Bank, was named Monday as treasurer, and Robert D. McNutt, former state senator, was named secretary of the Nebraska Citizens Council.

Election of president and vice president will be announced within two to three days, according to R. M. Armstrong, executive director of the council.

The action was taken Monday at the council's one-day conference.

The group acted favorably on resolutions prepared by Armstrong. These included:

Recommended support of a constitutional amendment to authorize the Legislature to substitute "more fair and workable" taxes on grain and seed. The present method of taxing grain and seed produced is generally "unworkable and unsatisfactory," the resolution said.

Support of the Constitutional amendment to remove the present restrictions on changing of salaries of state officers.

Recommended continuing the 1.1 mill levy state institutional building fund to meet future building demands of the University of Nebraska, state institutions, and colleges. Minor changes were recommended also.

Commended the position taken by the Nebraska delegates at the White House Conference on Education in opposing federal aid to schools. The resolution said "we recognize that there are certain areas with increased school burdens because of federal installations and operations." It also said, "we believe that other states can finance their school needs if they will make full use of their own resources."

Ask Congressional Help

Recommended Nebraska's representatives in Congress add their support to or help accomplish:

A balanced budget.

No further increase in the present statutory debt limit of $275 billion.

Strengthening of Congressional control over federal expenditures.

Disapproval of proposals to establish new or expanded federal enterprises when "careful analysis" indicates the proposed function could "should be performed privately" and that "it is a function which state and local governments can and should finance and administer."

Support those recommendations of the Hoover Commission on Organization of the executive branch of government and the commission on intergovernmental relations.

School Resolution

On matters of education the council's resolution urged that:

the seven-term legislative veteran said.

Lee suggested that if steps still seem necessary after the first of the year a committee of the Legislature Council come up with suggestions that would merit the calling of a special session.

The bill which lost at the last session, Lee said, would have abolished the Board of Control and would have provided "that the Legislature shall provide for the management, control and government of all state charitable, mental, reformatory and penal institutions."

Lee said a special session should not be called unless something concrete is offered, and added that if abolishment of the board seems necessary it could not be accomplished before November of 1958 without the calling of a special session.

—Investment— Crops Hoard Listed

U.S. Has 7 Billion Tied Up In Ag Support Plan

WASHINGTON (INS)—The government had a record $7,745,366,000 tied up in supporting prices of its vast hoard of cotton, wheat, tobacco, corn and other surplus farm crops at the end of October.

This was brought out Monday in a report showing that the Commodity Credit Corporation—the price supporting agency—now owns outright, or has loans outstanding on nearly 9,600,000 bales of cotton.

CCC also owns almost a billion bushels of wheat, sufficient for a year's supply, and has made loans to farmers on another 184,647,568 bushels.

Cotton and wheat are the two commodities in greatest difficulty at the present time.

Investment Jump

The investment in price-supporting operations through October cuts the previous record established in February, 1955, by $305,210,000. October was the third successive month in which the government's investment increased.

Much of the rise from September to October stemmed from a heavy movement of this year's cotton crop under the price support umbrella. During the month CCC made loans of approximately 220 million dollars on 1,280,000 bales of cotton.

Monday's report also showed that net losses on price support operations in the first four months of this fiscal year ran considerably higher than in the same months of 1954.

July-October losses were reported to be $240,514,022 as compared with a loss of $198,942,142 sustained during those months last year. For the entire fiscal year ending last June 30, the price support program operated nearly 800 million dollars in the red.

Needy

Part of the loss can be chalked up to donations of surplus commodities, including dairy products, to the needy at home and abroad.

In a separate announcement Monday, the Agriculture Department requested bids by private firms to process for package 111-256,000 pounds of dairy products for donation to U.S. welfare organizations for foreign donation.

The donations will include 56,756,000 pounds of butter, 27,500,000 pounds of cheese, and 27,000,000 pounds of dry milk.

Great Bulk

Four commodities—wheat, corn, cotton and tobacco—account for the great bulk of the government's current dollar investment.

CCC owns nearly two and one half billion dollars worth of wheat and has made loans to farmers amounting to an additional 381 million dollars. The inventory of cotton is valued at more than one billion, 145 million dollars and loans outstanding exceed 555 million.

The corn inventory owned by CCC exceeds one billion, 136 million dollars in value and loans outstanding amount to 254 million dollars.

Man Tells Cops Of Fatally Beating 60-Year-Old Wife

CHICAGO (INS)—Mrs. Melvina Kammerman, 60, wife of a Chicago importer, was found fatally beaten Monday in her apartment.

Mrs. Kammerman died several hours after police, answering a disturbance complaint, forced their way into the apartment. They said her husband, Marcus, 65, was in the apartment and they quoted him as saying he had beaten his wife.

Kammerman asserted, police said, he had returned home from a seven-week trip abroad to find his wife had withdrawn more than $60,000 from a joint bank account. He said she refused to tell what she had done with the money.

Kammerman came to the United States from Austria two years ago.

Sisters To Perform With Lincoln Symphony

Martha and Janet Danielson, both University of Nebraska students but neither of them majoring in music, will perform on two pianos with the Lincoln

Symphony Orchestra March 20 as a result of winning the symphony's audition. As shown above (only one piano was available for picture-taking), Martha,

Sister Team Wins Audition By Symphony

Misses Martha and Janet Danielson showed "freedom of style" and "excellent technique" in the execution of a duo piano number to win the Lincoln Symphony auditions held Monday.

The sisters are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Danielson of 2805 Wooddale.

They played "Concerto in D" by Poulenc for their audition. Judge was Martin Bush, Omaha music critic. In addition to praising Martha and Janet's style and technique, Bush said their work was "professional and mature," and that they displayed "a fine sense of ensemble."

He characterized the audition as "striking music strikingly played."

Both Martha and Janet are students at the University of Nebraska, where neither is a music major. Martha who is 19, is majoring in French. She has taken piano lessons for about 14 years, and is a member of University singers.

Janet, 16, is majoring in English but has a music minor. Janet, who also plays the violin, has had 12 years of piano.

Both girls study under Beth Miller Harrod.

The Danielsons are the first duo piano team ever to win the Lincoln Symphony auditions, although others have played in audition.

Martha said they were not sure what piece they would play in the concert March 20, but that it probably would be the Poulenc concerto.

Utility Contract Question Gets Strauss' 'No'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Langer (R-ND) demanded Monday that the Senate Antimonopoly Subcommittee subpoena Postmaster General Summerfield and Sherman Adams, top white house aid, in the new Dixon-Yates probe.

Langer said he wants to bring out "how much money Mr. Dixon and Mr. Yates... contributed to the campaign funds of the Republican party" in the 1952 campaign in which President Eisenhower won election.

Edgar H. Dixon and Eugene A. Yates are the utility magnates who contracted with the government to build a 107-million dollar power plant at West Memphis, Ark., to furnish electricity for the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA).

The contract has been cancelled and now the subcommittee, headed by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.), is engaged in a search for any "criminal conspiracy" which might be connected with it.

Refuse to Talk

Chairman Lewis E. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission and Budget Director Rowland R. Hughes both refused Monday to tell the senators whether they had discussed ramifications of the contract with Adams of anyone else at the White House.

They both contended any such discussions, if they were in fact held would be privileged communications within the executive branch of the government.

Langer, a subcommittee member said his demand to subpoena Adams and Summerfield was "motivated partly by the fact" that a federal grand jury in St. Louis has indicted Matthew J. Connelly and T. Lamar Caudle for conspiring to defraud the government in income tax cases.

Connelly was a top White House aid in the Truman administration and Caudle held a senior post in the Justice Department.

Could Plead Exemption

Langer said he believes Connelly could have pleaded exemption, or privilege, in any Congressional inquiry into such a matter on grounds that he was a White House aid not subject to Congressional subpoena.

Therefore, Langer said, he is proposing that both Summerfield and Adams be subpoenaed, not as government officials, but as private citizens—Summerfield as former chairman of the Republican National Committee during the 1952 presidential campaign.

Langer submitted his requests in a series of resolutions to the subcommittee. Kefauver said they would be considered at an executive session later, but did not indicate when this would be.

In refusing to say whether he had discussed repudiation of the contract with the White House, Strauss said he did so "on penalty of whatever the penalty may be."

Kefauver Questions

"Isn't it natural you would notify the White House of the possibility of fraud?" he was asked by Sen. Kefauver.

"That's a natural inference," Strauss replied.

But he refused to disclose whether he had any conversations with White House officials about junking the contract "or even to imply that I had any."

"On penalty of whatever the penalty may be," Strauss said, "I'll claim the privilege under the doctrine of separation of powers."

He contended this constitutional provision, dividing the powers of the federal government among its three branches, prohibits Congress from making such inquiries. He said he was refusing to answer "even at the price of your displeasure."

—United Nations— U.S. Urges A-Test Ban After Disarmament Plan

Lodge Calls For Speedy OK Of 'Open Skies' Proposal

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (INS)—The United States urged Monday a halt to all tests of nuclear weapons once the Western powers and Russia agree on a fool-proof disarmament program with built-in safeguards against sneak attack.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge made the suggestion in calling for speedy United Nations endorsement of President Eisenhower's "open skies" plan for mutual aerial surveys and exchange of military blueprints.

Lodge told the U.N. political committee in a speech on disarmament:

"The United States... believes that if agreement can be reached to eliminate or limit nuclear weapons within the framework of an effective system of disarmament under proper safeguards, there should be corresponding restrictions on the testing of such weapons."

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said last week the U.S. had been studying the possibility of suspending nuclear weapons tests "for a great many months."

He added that no final decision had been reached.

'Most Powerful'

Russia earlier proposed an East-West ban against further explosions of nuclear weapons after announcing it had tested its "most powerful" hydrogen bomb.

Lodge, in the first U.N. Assembly debate on the Eisenhower plan, challenged Russia to accept the proposal and pledged U.S. co-operation in working out a disarmament plan which provides security against sudden attack.

Stressing that security against nuclear invasion was the core of the disarmament problem, Lodge said:

"If we succeed in shackling surprise attack, we may yet set a seal against war itself."

Guarantees

He declared that the Eisenhower plan contained the needed guarantees against sudden invasion which would make disarmament possible.

The American diplomat took issue with Soviet criticism of the plan and stressed it was submitted "as a prelude to disarmament" and after all other arms proposals discussed in the past nine years had failed.

Drastic Immigration Change Will Be Asked—Brownell

Greater Flexibility Proposed

... To Meet Criticism

WASHINGTON (INS)—Attorney General Herbert Brownell, announced Monday the Eisenhower administration will ask Congress next January for a "drastic revision" of the controversial immigration laws.

Brownell

Walter Act, which governs U.S. immigration policy.

The attorney general combined his announcement with a hard hitting attack on the Democrats on the issues of "corruption and Communism" in a speech before the League of Republican Women of the District of Columbia.

Something Of A Surprise
The immigration announcement was something of a surprise, since Brownell has stated in the past that the law was working satisfactorily and needed only minor "technical" changes.

The attorney general did not spell out the proposed "drastic revision" but said the law should be changed to permit "greater flexibility and discretion."

Minority groups in particular have attacked the immigration statute on the grounds that it discriminates against persons from southern Europe and in favor of such nations as Britain, Germany and Scandinavia.

Asked About Fingerprints
A member of the audience specifically asked Brownell whether the administration plans to ease fingerprint requirements for visitors to the U.S., a practice which has been bitterly assailed by the Russians. Brownell said he would have to duck that question "until January."

Law College Senior Files 2nd Time For Unicam Election

Donald E. Rhode of Lynch, a senior at the University of Nebraska College of Law, filed with the secretary of state late Monday for nomination to the Nebraska Legislature from the 28th District.

Frank Nelson of O'Neill now represents the district, embracing Boyd, Holt, Keye Paha and Rock Counties. He has not yet filed for re-election.

Rhode ran against Nelson two years ago but lost, 4,232 to 3,792, in the general election.

Rhode is 29, a veteran of World War II and the Korean fighting, and holds a bachelor of arts degree from the University.

He said he favors a lower property tax, more efficient school system, positive legislation on running state institutions, and restoration of "certain essential roads" to the state highway system.

Silent Film Comic Condition Grave

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Buster Keaton, frozen-faced comedian of silent movies, is in "very grave" condition at a Veterans Hospital from a gastro-intestinal ailment, a hospital official said Monday.

The 60-year-old actor was admitted to Wadsworth Hospital in West Los Angeles with a severe hemorrhage, the official said.

"He is considered critically ill," added the executive. "The hemorrhage has been stopped. The ailment could be an ulcer, but an exact diagnosis has not been made."

ERIK WILLIAM BURKOWITZ

Robbery Slaying Motive

Omaha Cabbie Shot In Head

OMAHA (AP)—Authorities wondered Monday night if taxi-driver Erik Burkewitz, 62, was slain by a man another driver had been dispatched to pick up.

The checker cab dispatcher received a call for a cab to pick up a caller, who gave a name which police are withholding to the dispatcher. The dispatcher told driver Jack McCauley to answer the call.

But McCauley didn't pick up the fare.

Police learned that Burkewitz had completed a fare trip to a motel near the bowling alley and Capt. Theodore Janing said this placed Burkewitz in a position where he could have picked up the man who called from the alleys. Such procedure is often followed by Omaha drivers who might arrive at a certain spot prior to the arrival of another driver sent there.

"If we can find that man we may have the key to the mystery," said Capt. Janing.

Burkewitz was slain and his body dumped from his cab Monday morning. He was shot twice in the head with a .32 calibre pistol. Robbery has been set at the motive.

The body was found at mid-forenoon near 90th and Franklin streets beyond Omaha's western city limits. Mrs. Henry D. Schenck said she saw the body lying in the road when she drew open her living room drapes.

After shooting the cab driver, the gunman apparently shoved the body to one side, drove to the spot where it was found, and dumped it in the road.

Cab Found Earlier
Burkewitz's blood-spattered cab had been found seven hours before in the parking lot of West Lanes, a bowling alley just off Dodge Street on the western city limits.

Burkewitz's left coat pocket had been ripped open and his belt yanked off. He may have been wearing a money-changer, sheriff's officers noted.

Retracing the route of the cab, sheriff's officers followed traces of blood for several blocks. A large pool of blood was found in the street in front of the John Ready home at 92nd and Parker streets.

Just Before Midnight
Mrs. Ready said a cab stopped in front of her home between 11:30 p.m. and midnight, remained about two minutes, and then drove on.

Another resident of the neighborhood, Mrs. Eugene Jacobsen, heard what might have been a shot shortly after 11:30 p.m. She looked out and saw a taxi drive slowly by.

The body was found 1 1/2 blocks from the Jacobsen home.

The bowling alley where the car was found is nearly three miles from the spot the body was found.

Burkewitz's trip sheet showed he had collected $17.65 in 25 trips. When the cab was found its meter had clocked $1.63, indicating it had been driven about six miles.

Reds Cancel Rev. Dion's Soviet Trip

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Soviet Union has quietly forced Rev. Louis F. Dion to postpone his trip to Moscow because of the U. S. cancellation of a visa granted to a Russian clergyman.

This was disclosed Monday in Washington following an announcement in Worcester, Mass., that Dion was delaying his trip.

Meanwhile, the State Department confirmed that the Russians have sent another note to the United States in an attempt to get permission for Metropolitan Boris, archbishop of the Russian Orthodox Church, to enter America.

The department granted a visa to Boris this fall when the Soviets agreed to give Dion permission to take over as the American clergyman in Moscow following the ousting last spring of Rev. Georges Bissonette.

Taking Over
The U. S. cancelled Boris' visa ten days later when the Russians made it plain that the clergyman was coming to the U. S. to take over the administrative duties as head of the branch of the church in this country which recognizes Moscow.

The department argued that these functions were not permitted an American clergyman in Moscow and therefore did not meet U. S. policy of equal religious reciprocity.

Informed sources said that a member of the Soviet Embassy last week notified Michael Francis Doyle, legal representative of the Assumptionist Order which was planning to send Dion to Moscow, that it would not be advisable for the American father to go until the Boris question is settled.

The Russian representative emphasized that Dion's visa was not canceled but that he could not use it.

Truck Driver 'Serious' After Collision Of Semis

NORTH PLATTE, Neb. (AP)—Arba R. Knight, 30, Stuart, Iowa, truck driver, is in serious condition at a hospital here of injuries suffered when his semi-trailer truck crashed into the rear of another semi-trailer just west of Maxwell Monday.

He suffered a punctured lung, fractured jaw, fractured leg, fractured ribs and other injuries.

State Safety Patrolman Gayle Miller said George H. Whitlatch Jr., Adams City, Colo., had halted his semi-trailer because of motor trouble and that Dallas C. Silvey, Omaha, also driving a semi, pulled to a stop behind Whitlatch. It was the Whitlatch truck that Knight smashed into.

PILOT KILLED; MISSES HOMES

WEYMOUTH, Mass. (INS)—A Marine Corps jet pilot, who diverted his roaring fighter plane away from a residential area, was killed Monday when the craft crashed and burned in a field a mile from the South Weymouth Naval Air Station.

The pilot, whose identity was withheld, was a member of the Marine Corps Air Group 32, based at Cherry Point, N. C. He was returning to his base after an overnight stop at the South Weymouth Base.

Time Of Death Not Yet Set On Burned Man

OMAHA (AP)—Police Monday sought to fix the time of death of an elderly man whose burned body was found in the sub-basement incinerator of the Fontenelle Hotel.

The body was identified as that of Dennis Cooper, 79, the hotel's garbage man. He had been reported missing since Friday afternoon.

A friend of the dead man told police Monday he had seen Cooper at 6 p.m. Friday in a cafe near the hotel. Detective Sgt. F. E. Daly said another hotel employee reported seeing Cooper about 2:30 p.m. Friday in the basement.

Sgt. Daly said the incinerator opening was a hole, about three feet in diameter, in the basement floor. Garbage pushed through the hole, he said falls into the sub-basement fire box.

Condition Serious

Mrs. Richard (Jessie) Samuelson, 63, of 302 B was reported still in serious condition early Tuesday morning at St. Elizabeth's Hospital. She suffered internal chest injuries, and collarbone, shoulder and rib fractures in an automobile accident Saturday four miles north-east of Milford in which her husband was killed.

Government And Air Line Held Liable

... In 1949 Crash

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court ruled Monday both the federal government and Eastern Air Lines are liable for damages in a 1949 air crash here which took the lives of 55 persons.

In three separate actions, the court closed out a long, bitter legal battle over the question of a liability.

The disaster occurred when a four-engine Eastern airliner and a P38 fighter flown by Bolivian pilot Eric Rios Bridoux collided in the air.

In one action, the court unanimously agreed with decisions of lower federal courts that the government, is subject to liability.

$15,000 Limit
In another, it agreed with the U. S. Court of Appeals here that the government's liability is limited to $15,000 for each death.

This is on the ground the government's negligence occurred in the control tower of Washington National Airport, which is in Virginia. Virginia limits damages for death to $15,000.

In another decision the court ruled 6-3 that a state may fix "reasonable time limits" for asserting federal constitutional rights.

New Trials Denied

It did so in denying new trials for three New Orleans Negroes under death sentences for the rape of a white woman. The court found the Negroes—John Michel Clifton, A. Poret and Edgar Labat—failed to meet a Louisiana time limit for challenging the makeup of the grand jury which indicted them.

They contended Negroes were systematically excluded from the grand juries.

If such protests had been timely made and supported by evidence, Justice Clark said for the majority, "we might have a different case here."

Albert F. Kendle Funeral Thursday

Albert F. Kendle died Monday at his home at 3327 Holdrege. He was 84.

Born Jan. 31, 1871, in Holmes County, Ohio, Mr. Kendle moved to Lincoln from Syracuse, N. Y. He lived in Lincoln for the past 25 years.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Wadlow's Chapel, the Rev. Vern A. Spindell officiating. Burial will be in Lincoln Memorial Park.

In 1897 Mr. Kendle entered the jewelry store business in Brownsville, Neb. From Brownsville he moved to Syracuse in 1902.

For many years Mr. Kendle was in charge of the clocks and watches of the C&Q Railroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Kendle celebrated their 58th wedding anniversary Sept. 16 of this year.

Mr. Kendle was a member of the Congregational Church and Mount Moriah No. 57 AF&AM Lodge at Syracuse.

Surviving Mr. Kendle are his wife, Elizabeth; two daughters, Mrs. Selma Lake and Mrs. Irma Bley, both of Lincoln; five sons, Walter E., E. R., R. I. and O. O. Kendle, all of Lincoln and A. F. Kendle Jr., of Kearney; brother, Adolph of Canton, O.; sister, Mrs. Louise Shutt of Stransberg, O.; 14 grandchildren and 14 great grandchildren.

Winnie Calls Reds In India A 'Spectacle'

WOODFORD, England (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill Monday night called the Asiatic tour of the Soviet leaders a surprising spectacle and suggested that the British government weigh carefully whether to let them repeat it here.

Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party chief Khrushchev are due to visit Britain in April.

Speaking to a rally of Young Conservatives, Churchill said: "I have no doubt you all have been following the exhibition—there is no other word—which the heads of the Russian state have been making of their tour through India and Burma."

'Surprising'
"It certainly has been a surprising spectacle and one which Her Majesty's government will no doubt study carefully before they allow it, with suitable variants, to be repeated here."

Laughter swept the audience of 1,000 here in his own constituency. Churchill, suffering from a cold, interrupted his talk with frequent coughs.

The 81-year-old British leader's only reference to international affairs in his speech was to the Russians' tour. Most of it was an attack on British socialism.

Attraction

WASHINGTON (AP)—That $4,000 tractor given farmer Dwight D. Eisenhower last week had—in addition to a radio and a cigarette lighter—one attraction that wasn't mentioned by those who first looked it over.

Since it's a gift, the President won't have to pay any income tax on it.

"He comes under the same gift law that you and I do," an income tax man said when a reporter asked about it. "Any gift of less than $30,000 is exempt from taxes. And even then the tax is the responsibility of the donor, not the fellow who gets it."

Remains Cool

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (INS)—A slight mixup in timing failed to upset President Eisenhower as he telephoned a message to the New York merger convention of the AFL and CIO.

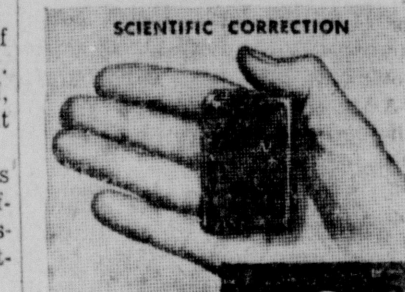

Just as a White House technician gave Mr. Eisenhower a go-ahead to start speaking into two microphones at his Gettysburg office, news secretary James C. Hagerty said the President had three minutes to wait.

Mr. Eisenhower grinned, leaned back in his swivel chair, and rocked back and forth in relaxed fashion, unconcerned about the technician's erroneously having insisted his watch was correct and talking others present into setting their three minutes fast.

Sec. Benson Says He Won't Quit Unless President Requests It

He'll 'Probably' Campaign For GOP Candidate

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — Ezra Taft Benson, U.S. secretary of agriculture, said Monday he would not resign unless President Eisenhower requested it.

And he indicated he expected to be still in office next year by saying he "probably will" campaign for the 1956 Republican presidential candidate.

The agriculture secretary told a news conference the Republican farm program "always has been based on the welfare of the American farmer," and he called it a "good record."

Later, in a speech before a dairymen's organization, Benson struck anew at Democratic farm proposals by declaring that rigid price supports had "failed utterly" in the changing postwar market.

'Constructive'

He said his department would present a "constructive" program to Congress next month.

Some Democrats have said they hoped Benson remained in the Eisenhower Cabinet until the 1956 election. They argue that so many farmers are dissatisfied with Benson's approach to the national farm problem that the Democrats would pick up votes.

Asked at the news conference whether he would resign if he thought his resignation would help the GOP's chances next year, Benson replied he would leave that up to Eisenhower.

Benson said he thought any Republican candidate could run on the Eisenhower-Benson farm program of the past three years.

Benson parried the question of whether he thought Eisenhower would run again.

'Blessing'

"I think it would be a blessing for the American people and for the world if he does," he said.

In his speech prepared for the 19th annual meeting of the Metropolitan Milk Producers Bargaining Agency, Benson asserted that high support prices imposed by the Democrats during World War II were responsible for food surpluses.

High supports "did not prevent declining farm prices and incomes as the surplus stocks began to pile up," he declared.

And he said that flexible supports — backed by the Eisenhower administration — were not enough to combat the surpluses, which, he said, were "seriously distorting and depressing our markets."

Wider East O Plans Asked By City Unit

In an effort to map out an expenditure program for street improvements, a City Council subcommittee has asked for detailed estimates on the widening of East O under several plans.

The East O job from 27th to 48th was considered by the committee and others as one of the most pressing traffic needs. It was the first choice of Cant. Willis Manchester of the Police Department traffic division.

City Engineer Carl Fisher will submit estimates on widening under federal specifications and with federal participation and for widening under city specifications without federal participation.

The latest estimate on the East O widening with federal participation gave the city's share of the cost as $250,000. Fisher will also present figures on the cost of widening from 27th to 33rd only.

The city has an estimated $406,137 available for street improvements during the current fiscal year.

The entire summer has gone by with nothing done, said Mayor Clark Jeary, and it is now time to decide what will be done in the spring.

District Court Ruling Awaited On Renting Terminal Office

A Lancaster District Court ruling is being awaited on the legality of an office space rental contract for the city recreation department.

Payment on the contract has been withheld by the City of Lincoln since May 16, when Bennett S. (Abe) Martin, president of the Lincoln Terminal Co., became a city councilman.

The four District Judges, sitting en banc, heard arguments Monday on the declaratory judgment action brought by the city.

City Atty. Jack Pace contended in a brief that the charter prohibition does not affect the lease in the case because the contract was entered into Nov. 29, 1954, long before Martin filed as a candidate for the council.

$100 Per Month

The two-year contract, which expires Dec. 31, 1956, is for the rent of second-floor quarters at 927 O for the recreation office at $100 per month.

A question arose as to the lease's future validity when Martin was installed as a city councilman May 16.

Pace said the city has paid no rent for the space since that date.

This particular question has not been ruled upon by Nebraska courts, but the city's brief pointed out other jurisdictions hold such prohibition does not extend to contracts secured before a firm member or contractor becomes a councilman.

The recreation department is to be housed in the auditorium after its completion, scheduled for early 1957.

U.S. Suit Forcing Film Sale To TV Is Ruled Down

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — A federal jurist ruled Monday against the federal government's anti-trust suit to compel the Hollywood film industry to make motion pictures available to television.

The jurist, Chief Judge Leon R. Yankwich, held that the studios' refusal to sell their product to television "was dictated by sound economics."

Judge Yankwich analyzed the law and movie studio practices in a 30,000 word opinion in which he declared that "business practices which restrain competition to some extent violate anti-trust laws only if they are unreasonable."

The opinion was hailed as a victory for Hollywood and one that would have a wide effect in industries other than motion pictures.

The jurist held that motion pictures are an entertainment medium deriving most of their revenue from paid admissions to theaters. He said further:

"Television is chiefly an advertising medium in which motion pictures and other forms of free entertainment are used to merchandise other persons' products."

Rare Occasion: Lady Churchill Makes Speech

WOODFORD, England (AP)—Something rare happened in Woodford Monday night—a speech by Lady Churchill, wife of Sir Winston.

The former Prime Minister, always unpredictable finished his own address at a political meeting. Then, with an impish grin, he turned to his wife and called on her to speak.

"Monster!" she said in a stage whisper that carried nicely to the far corners of the auditorium. But she arose with a smile and said:

"I must apologize for my husband's irregular proceeding. This meeting is not in his charge and I'd already declined a kind offer to speak."

Joe Asks Demos To Join In Blast

WASHINGTON (INS)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) called on Democrats Adlai E. Stevenson, Estes Kefauver and Averell Harriman to "repudiate" the Senate's constitutional rights investigation. McCarthy charged it is weakening the nation's security system.

The Wisconsin Republican claimed that the inquiry being conducted by Sen. Thomas C. Hennings (D-Mo) has as its objective "nothing less than the total emasculation of the security system."

He wrote Sen. Kefauver, New York Gov. Harriman and presidential candidate Stevenson: "If you fail to take this action, then you have no right to ask the American people, either in the primaries or in the national election, to endorse your candidacy."

ROUTE OF THE EAGLES

Up To His Doctors

"The odds were narrowing," wrote the Washington correspondent for the Omaha World-Herald at week's end, "on the possibility that President Eisenhower will seek re-election next year."

"Where in September nearly everyone believed Mr. Eisenhower would bow out at the end of his first term, a growing number of observers now feel he will again be the Republican nominee in 1956. There is a well-defined belief that only an adverse recommendation from his physicians will keep the President out of the arena."

Speculation itself at this time is futile.

It continues only because of the fact that the American people may be on the threshold of an unprecedented presidential campaign. Those who base their belief that the President will bow out when the time comes for him to speak do so because they still think it would be necessary to relieve him of a great many of the duties of his office. They argue it is impossible to transfer duties and responsibilities to others who are not elective officers.

We may have reached the point, however, where the American people, concluding that the presidency has become a killer, will decide it is time to be doing something about it. That "something" means lightening the work load of the man in the White House, lightening it particularly when it comes to matters more or less of a routine character and in no way involving issues of public policy.

Nation Loses A Builder

The death of Glenn L. Martin, pioneer in the conquest of the air and a lifelong contributor to airplane advance, deprives the United States of a distinguished figure and a citizen of the first order.

Martin became a figure in flying in 1909, six years after the Wright brothers flew their first plane at Kitty Hawk. While so many of his generation, once tasting the heavy wine of flight, succeeded with contributions in the new field through flight alone, Martin, who never gave up his love for the air, turned his talents forcefully to the development of airplanes and to manufacturing. He scored firsts without number and in terms of tangible contributions he was without equal.

Unlike so many who participate in pioneering and live their lives out much the same as they started, Martin was present at the birth of aviation and lived to see it develop into a fabulous and much changed thing. It is noteworthy that this man who in 1909 succeeded in getting his primitive plane airborne died at the head of a massive concern charged by his government with the job of making and launching a satellite of this planet.

His life was one rich in achievement and few who come to their end can say they have done so much.

Every Little Bit Helps

A second 115 kilovolt transmission line has been closed between Gavins Point, South Dakota, and Belden in northeast Nebraska.

The closure means additional Missouri Basin electric power will flow down the wires to power-thirsty northeastern Nebraska, giving the area in all an aggregate 70,000 kilowatt lift. Development of irrigation and other activities in that part of our state can now surge forward again.

Nebraska with a general power problem can take a measure of satisfaction from the Belden project and will be reminded that by the end of next year one more line will tap the great resources of the Department of Interior's Missouri Basin development. It will connect the Fort Randall generating facilities farther up the Missouri with Neligh, carrying enough capacity to bring the state's input of Bureau of Reclamation power up to 100,000 kilowatts.

In the light of Nebraska's overall needs and future well-being the Basin contributions thus far lack a great deal of providing the substantial answer. But such as is being delivered or projected does fall within the state's necessity for reliable, low cost electricity and qualifies as a highly acceptable contribution.

Greatly needed is the proposed Fort Randall-Grand Island transmission line which would deliver 230,000 volts to Central Nebraska. The national administration thus far has not viewed the project with the kind of enthusiasm that influences congressional consent, but Nebraskans do not concede the case is hopeless.

The investment, the fight and the planning for more than just enough electric power to meet the state's immediate needs constitute a most vital cause in behalf of a growing, maturing state. There just cannot be too much of it.

Man With Future

The farmer may have his doubts about many things from weather to farm programs but he no longer needs to have mixed feelings about John Fisher, editor of Harper's Magazine. Editor Fisher is totally against the farmer and wishes him no good.

In a recent editorial Fisher dourly notes that the farmer is about to get his boots licked again by both political parties and he recommends that city people throw eggs at any candidate who styles himself the farmers' friend. He thinks the farmers ought to be dumped out of their Cadillacs and be required to live as others without government doles.

Mr. Fisher is entitled to his thoughts and free to express them but if he adds to his constitutional prerogatives a further liberty, that of traveling and studying we doubt that he will find much basis for his hot tempered remarks.

Farmers are only noted for their Cadillacs in far removed places where farming is a fiction, although the greater number of them now do have electric lights in their homes and are for the most part guilty of solvency.

Our feeling about Mr. Fisher is that he should purchase a couple of hundred acres and start plowing for his first Cadillac. A man of such expressive anger as he has would inevitably and in a short time become a most articulate reformer—in behalf of his farm income.

Copying Us

The Denver Post, getting into the holiday spirit notes that Russia has taken a leaf out of the West's book. It is doing its Christmas shopping early. Only its shopping consists principally of finding citizens it does not like and putting an end to them.

In 1953 Lavrenti Beria got it on December 24 after he had been taken in on charges of treason while he was running the Russian secret police.

In 1954 on December 24 the Russians disposed of four associates of Beria.

But this year it is still early and the Russians already have purged an additional six Beria men. We don't know how the rank and file Russians feel about their government's promptness, but we imagine some will fear that it will get into the same trouble we experience over here. If one shops early he always has enough time to think things over and run down at the last minute to get to or three more gifts.

D-Y Cancellation Divides Ike's Men

WASHINGTON—A lengthy back-stage battle has been taking place between two top Eisenhower appointees over whether to pay Dixon-Yates approximately $5,500,000 for their alleged out-of-pocket expenses when the government canceled the Dixon-Yates contract.

Adm. Lewis Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, ex-partner in the Kuhn-Loeb banking firm, wanted it paid. A former White House secretary to Herbert Hoover, the man who really sold the Ike administration on Dixon-Yates, Strauss had rammed the contract through even when his own AEC voted against it.

However, Controller General Joseph Campbell, another Ike appointee, said no.

Strauss and Campbell haggled for some time. But the man who handled Columbia University's finances under "Professor" Ike in New York stood pat, even though he had once voted for the Dixon-Yates contract when he was a member of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Campbell's refusal to budge was why Adm. Strauss came out and said publicly that the government would not compensate Dixon-Yates.

CRIMINAL CONSPIRACY?

In the back of the controller general's mind is the possibility that two cases may lurk in the background of the Dixon-Yates deal.

No. 1 is the suppression of a rival bid against Dixon-Yates. Walter Von Trescow of the Hanover National Bank attempted to bid. However, when he tried to get the prominent engineering firm of Gibbs and Hill to work up plans for him, he got word from Gibbs and Hill that pressure had been brought to bear and they could not co-operate. Suppression of competition in making government bids is against the law.

No. 2 is the way Adolphe Wenzell's presence inside the budget bureau was covered up. Wenzell was working for the First Boston Corp., which was to do the Dixon-Yates financing. Yet he was also called by Budget Director Hughes to work inside the Budget Bureau in advising the government.

This was possibly a more flagrant conflict of interest than that of Air Secretary Talbot or Buildings Administrator Peter Strobel, both of whom resigned.

AMAZING COVER-UP

Wenzell's presence inside the Budget Bureau was concealed.

When I got word of it in the summer of 1954, inquiries at the Budget Bureau brought only a runaround. I then suggested to Sen. Hill of Alabama that he query the Budget Bureau officially. He did so and got nowhere.

I then suggested to Sidney Davis, counsel for the Senate Investigating Committee that he ask for budget personnel records. He did so; with like results.

I tried to talk to ex-Budget Director Joe Dodge. He hung up the telephone.

Finally in late February, 1955, after the Democrats secured control of Congress, plus subpoena powers, Wenzell's presence was finally admitted.

DORIS FLESON

Lausche Lingers Over Decision

WASHINGTON — A veteran Ohio reporter decided recently that it was all nonsense to let Gov. Frank Lausche muddy the political waters in that key state so that neither Lausche's own party nor his Republican opposition can make valid plans for 1956.

The reporter had no difficulty getting an appointment with the governor nor was Lausche taciturn. The trouble was that he was never responsive; no question, however bluntly phrased, was plainly answered.

Then as the reporter, admitting defeat, was departing, Lausche had an interesting afterthought "How can a party ignore a man elected five times governor of Ohio?" He called after his guest. A firm goodbye followed, leaving the situation where Lausche apparently wants it — in a state of confusion.

Sen. Estes Kefauver's first choice for campaign manager, Michael V. DiSalle of Toledo, had a similar experience.

DiSalle enjoyed the national limelight he achieved as the price administrator with a ready quip at his own expense during the Truman administration. At Kefauver national headquarters with the Washington correspondents at his beck and call had great appeal for him.

But caution prevailed. Lausche is the head of DiSalle's party in Ohio and there was that doubt whether Lausche himself would heed the presidential call of some of the Democratic conservatives. DiSalle decided to talk it over with him.

The governor never said no but he never said yes, either. What he did do was explain earnestly that he just couldn't make up his own mind what he ought to do. He might, he hinted, run again for governor, oppose GOP incumbent George Bender for the Senate, possibly take a favorite son delegation to the national convention. Every time DiSalle tried to open a door leading to preferment for DiSalle, Lausche mused anew over his own wide choice of alternatives.

DiSalle, like the Ohio reporter, knew when he was licked. Senator Kefauver will announce a new and less well-known campaign manager when he lifts the cellophane curtain on his own intentions in a few weeks.

Kefauver's friends are consoling him by recalling the headlines DiSalle used to make for himself. They tell the senator that at least he will get his name in the paper as often as his new campaign manager.

Ohio Republicans are prudently doing nothing to annoy the unpredictable lone wolf governor who has rarely put his vote-getting abilities at the service of other Democrats. They admit that if he runs against Sen. Bender it will be a tight race. They also reported to GOP Chairman Hall at Chicago that they could not wait until his late March deadline to learn President Eisenhower's intentions. The Ohio presidential preference primary takes place March 8, and February was fixed by the state leaders as the deadline for Eisenhower's decision.

BOB CONSIDINE

It's An Age Of Half Statements

NEW YORK—We're living in the re-born age of the half-stated statement. The man in the public eye squares his shoulders, rears back and lets fly with half a punch. How moderate, for example, is Adlai Stevenson's theme of "moderation."

"I shall do everything in my power next year to help you report the record (the GOP's) accurately and fully to the country," says the President. Republicans start to throw their hats in the air, then hold on to them and read the statement all over again. It doesn't help. Big top wheels go in to see the President, come out saying that he'll run again. Then you read beyond the second paragraph of the story and you learn that they are speaking wholly on their own, that Eisenhower never brought up the subject nor did they.

The party is reliving the perplexity caused a generation ago when Cal Coolidge bewildered it with the Yankee verb "choose," as in "I do not choose to run for President in 1923."

Seems to me the New York Post Authority was rude refusing to permit the Comet III to land at any New York area airport in the course of its 'round-the-world flight.

"The public will not accept an aircraft if it cannot operate without excessive noise," loudly said Austin J. Tobin, the authority's authority.

The public, we are convinced, will accept anything that is connected with progress and the way-of-life-to-be. One is inclined to ask Tobin for the credentials he indicates he possesses as spokesman for "the public." If Boeing's 707 had been permitted to land here on its recent cross-country record flight, the only trouble Tobin would have had from the public would have been that it might have trampled him in its effort to see and touch this incredible new means of flight.

This country's aviation industry and the New York Port Authority owes a great debt to the British. For the basic reasons that there was a man named Whittle, who made the first jet, and that Comet I flew, flourished, and then fell, our own jets will succeed. Our companies have learned a lot from the trial and error of the first Comet. It cost the British 99 lives and millions of dollars in research. But the door of the jet age was consequently opened.

The Comet III is an immeasurably stronger and abler plane than the Comet I. It is the forerunner of the Comet IV, with which Britain hopes to catch up in a race she once led by many months and miles. The very least we could do is offer the hospitality of our long, broad landing strips to BOAC's oncoming beauty.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Nehru Clings To The Third Way

JAWAHARLAL NEHRU

NEW DELHI—Just past his sixty-sixth birthday, Prime Minister Nehru, on whom the fate of his country rests, to an extraordinary degree, shows himself serenely confident that India has chosen the right course in staying free of the two great power blocs.

In his interview with this reporter he talked frankly of world events, his serious expression broken now and then by a quick and friendly smile.

To the question whether the visit of Russian Premier Bulganin and Communist Party Boss Nikita S. Krushchev and the big reception given them here had in any way altered India's foreign policy, Nehru replied:

"Not in any way whatsoever."

"That was a sequence of events that led to this visit. For a year or more I had been asked to visit Moscow. Finally, a date was set and I went there in May. I asked them to come here and so this time was fixed for the return visit."

Nehru is well aware of the interpretation put on the Soviet leaders' visit by his critics in the United States. He says he sees nothing incompatible with his friendship for America in the fact that the Bulganin-Krushchev team has returned his visit and he adds:

"When I went to the United States I wasn't against anything. I went because I was invited and I wanted to go."

Nehru revealed that about two months before President Eisenhower's illness, the President had invited India's Prime Minister to come to Washington. There followed an exchange of letters which ended shortly before the President's heart attack.

The President did not entirely close the door to the possibility of such a visit.

"I believe he was really interested," the prime minister said. "And then came the tragedy of his illness."

How great a tragedy this was we may know only in the retrospective view of history. But there are some indications of what it has meant in the discontinuity of American foreign policy.

A few days after the President's heart attack Nehru received a message from Chou En-lai, premier and foreign minister of Communist China, expressing his concern that the President, as a convinced advocate of peace, had been removed from the world scene. This was the unofficial line of the Russians at the last Geneva conference and, while it may be merely an alibi for their refusal to negotiate, there are those with expert knowledge of the Soviet Union who believe it was a factor.

During his talk with Nehru here, Bulganin expressed the same doubt about American intentions with Mr. Eisenhower removed from the picture.

It has been five years since this reporter last talked with Nehru in the prime minister's residence. He has changed but little in that interval, despite the incessant demands he makes upon himself. Holding the direction of both foreign and domestic policy in his own hands, his face is unlined, his manner almost casual.

He talked specifically about the Baghdad pact which includes Turkey, Pakistan, Iran, Iraq and Britain in a defensive alliance on Russia's southern rim.

"What the Baghdad pact did was to invite retaliatory action," Nehru said. "It split the Arab states and that seems to me unfortunate."

It seems to me that the support of the peoples concerned in these countries and their feeling about the arms being supplied from the outside must be considered. Where reactionary dictatorial regimes exist it's quite possible that the people may feel that these arms are meant to subvert them. The stability of such a regime—I shall name no names—must always be uncertain."

Economic and social reform in his own country is as great a preoccupation with Nehru as peace in the world. The two are, of course for him, inseparable goals. One program close to Nehru's heart is to raise by gradual means the pitifully low standards of the three-fourth of the Indian people who live in the villages.

With peace and hope of achieving reforms in his own country through Democratic means so closely intertwined, Nehru is, for the months ahead, obviously seeking to maintain the status quo in Asia and the Middle East. He said he is confident there will be no meeting of the Asian-African powers in Cairo in February or March as had been reported. Such a meeting might inflame present antagonisms. The proposal for a meeting in Cairo was made without prior consultation with four of the five Colombo powers, which were the inviting powers for the Bandung conference of last spring.

Nor does Nehru take seriously the report from Moscow that Burma's Premier U Nu, while on his visit to the Soviet Union, invited Russia to become one of the Asian-African group. This was a casual remark by U Nu at a private dinner, according to Nehru and in no way constituted an invitation. He regards with the same skepticism the claim that Bulganin and Krushchev have been making during their current tour that Russia is an Asian power.

A Look At History

Omaha, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: There are those citizens of the United States who are apparently convinced that the solution for our economic troubles can be solved by returning altogether to the law of supply and demand. To all of those, I recommend that they make a study of the economic history of the farmers of Nebraska.

Well do I remember the nineties, for instance, I was living with my parents on a Nebraska farm which before 1870 had been uninhabited land, except for a few Indians. Briefly the life consisted of intermittent good crop years and drought. And most agonizing was the fact that when crops were good, the prices the farmer received for them were pitifully small. It has been like that ever since except in war years. Don't take my word for it—just look up the facts.

Consider the history of the Canadian wheat pool. At least twice the farmers there tried to organize and control surpluses which were apparently wrecking the market on wheat. The present plan of having the government bolster farm prices to a place where the farmer can live in the American way has come nearer doing the job of maintaining prices for the farmer than anything else yet tried in the history of the United States.

So all know it's not perfect. But let's not burn the house down until we have another better one to move into. Anyone with a couple of ounces of brains which function without too much political party prejudice knows full well that Old Man Supply and Demand can and often does through the years wreck some sectors of our population.

We are not going to remedy this by closing our eyes and saying: "Look what the Democrats or Republicans have done to us." We'll have to do better than that if Nebraska farmers get any permanent relief from disastrously low prices for their products.

GEORGE A. PHIPPS

Hastings Housing

Hastings, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: In a recent issue of The Star, a woman wrote of having tramped the streets of Lincoln looking for a rental property or apartment in which her family could afford to live.

There need to be no tramping the streets of Hastings searching for a place for common folks to live. The city has 800 rental units that brought in a net return to the city of over $19,000 last year. The city paid the federal government around $50,000 for them and so in the first year's income on the investment, the city found itself receiving a most generous return, if I am informed correctly.

The naval base sold those homes in Spencer Park to the city over a year ago. The units range from a one-bedroom apartment to a three-bedroom unit, and the rentals are as low as $17 and on up to $37.

There are over 500 families living in Spencer Park now, leaving the city with plenty of extra housing and able to meet all demands for homes for some time to come. Spencer Park lies close up to the city limits on the southeast. The city pays on this property in taxes—school and otherwise—the same as though held by private owners. Only those of the low-income group are permissible renters, unless an ejection finds someone in the higher group without shelter.

Had Mayor Anderson cast his lot with the housing committee in Lincoln for public housing, there would be no street walking there by folks needing living quarters which they can afford. But he didn't. He would approve of 400 units but no more, while Hastings with one-fifth the population could handle 800.

And That's That

The Federal Reserve bank, we understand, is holding night sessions because of a general shortage of pennies. Most of them seem to have gone out of circulation in the last few months and rush orders have gone out to the mints to make a fresh supply to expedite Christmas shopping.

This may confound the Federal Reserve, but it is fairly clear to the average householder. Some of the pennies have gone out of circulation because there are always those people with an unquenchable thirst for saving up and in these days of high living costs and low purchasing power the penny is the only coin left that savers can keep around long enough to work with. And as for the rest of the shortage, the unthrifts have taken care of that. They've just thrown their pennies away.

The youngsters of rural America have become the nation's finest, most valuable crop.

Nancy's Prize Steer

furnishes another reminder of the wonderful experiences which befall individual members of the 4-H club of this country. The judge of the International summed it up this way: "Youngsters live to have a grand champion at the International. It's the biggest thing to work for if you really like cattle. I didn't really think that the interest could be developed this early in life." Inasmuch as Nancy Turner is the third teen-age farm girl to grab off top honors in the International competition, chances are that the interest not only will continue but will mount among boys and girls alike. A grand champion means an excellent start in life—in Nancy's case, abundant funds for a college education.

The youngsters of rural America have become the nation's finest, most valuable crop.

Security Sacrifice By Ike May Mean NATO Death—Mansfield

By JACK BELL.
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) said Monday if the Eisenhower administration sacrifices security for economy in its new military budget it may lead to the end of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.
Mansfield, a Senate Foreign Relations committee member, said he hopes President Eisenhower will join with British Prime Minister Anthony Eden at his January conference here in action aimed at "strengthening the Western Alliance."

"It appears to me," Mansfield said in an interview, "that if the West doesn't wake up to the position being taken by the Soviet Union since the Geneva conference and if nothing is done, NATO may well disintegrate in from three to five years."
Mansfield said a proposed 100,000-man reduction in the British army, French discussion of proposals to cut the length of service for military conscripts, and projected declines in military outlays by other NATO countries threaten the West's defensive posture.

Plan To Aid Beet Growers Explained

10 States Are Represented At Scottsbluff Conference

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb., Dec. 5.—The executive secretary of the National Beet Growers' Federation told that group's 10th annual meeting Monday that the federation's proposed program calls for the domestic sugar producer to get a 55 per cent share of increased sugar consumption beginning in 1956.

Under present law Cuba gets 96 per cent of any increase in sugar consumption beyond a basic total of 2,350,000 short tons. The rest is allotted to other foreign suppliers.

Richard W. Blake, Greeley, Colo., told the federation that the proposed change is at the top of the agenda of the Senate Finance Committee when Congress opens in January.

'Free From Politics'

Representatives of 19 growers' federations and associations in 10 states were present for the opening of the two day meeting.

In speaking on what the beet sugar industry can expect in the next session of Congress the executive secretary said that "we have always been free from politics and in my opinion this has contributed greatly to the success of our program."

Whether President Eisenhower decides to run or not may have some bearing at least on the action of Republican senators, Blake reported.

Administration Backing

The proposed program of the federation has the backing of the present administration and has been agreed upon by the U. S. domestic producers plus the Philippines, Puerto Rico and Hawaii, he said.

The meeting opened Monday with representatives from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Utah, Wyoming, Montana, Colorado, Nebraska, South Dakota and California.

Ishmael (Babe) Yost of Billings, chairman of the federation, presided at the opening sessions which heard a report on the consumption estimate hearing by William Carson of Weiser, Idaho, and Blake on legislation in 1955.

Stromsburg Man Decides—

If You Want A Home Bad Enough You Can Build One

STROMSBURG, Neb. (AP)—Leo Larson of Stromsburg is a firm believer in the old saying "necessity is the mother of invention."

When Larson got out of military service, he and his wife wanted a home. But homes cost money and few were to be had in Stromsburg.

The Larsons started looking and finally located an old rundown house in their price range. It had no basement, no plumbing, no heating and the wiring was antiquated. Larson knew nothing about building, woodworking, handling tools, other than what he had learned as a youngster on a farm. But when necessity and circumstances forced him, Larson learned quickly.

He began by excavating the basement, pouring the footings and laying the walls. He did all the work himself, and eventually put in the plumbing, did all the necessary woodwork, the plastering and rearranged the rooms.

As time went by, his knowledge of building improved and he finally bought the necessary tools to design and make cabinets and much of the furniture in the house. And all the time, he was busy at his fulltime job at the post office.

Recently, he completed an elaborate model for the New Salem Lutheran Church.

Science Learns How To Stop Asthma Attacks

Doctors Find New Tiny Tablet Gives Relief In Minutes... Lasts For Hours!

New York, N. Y. (Special)—Medical science has developed a new, tiny tablet that stops asthma attacks... and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms.

Authoritative medical tests have proved that this remarkable compound brings blessed relief in mere minutes... relief that lasts for hours.

This fast-acting formula is prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients. And now asthma sufferers can obtain this formula—without prescription—in tiny, easy-to-take tablets called Primatene.

New Primatene helps relieve asthma spasms these important ways: (1) opens bronchial tubes so that breathing is natural; (2) loosens mucous congestion; (3) relieves taut, nervous tension.

All this without taking painful injections, and without the inconvenience of nebulizers. The secret of Primatene is that it combines 3 medicines found most effective in combination for asthma distress. Each medicine performs a special purpose.

Primatene is available at all drug stores. The price is only 98¢ for a bottle of twenty-four tablets. And remember—if not entirely satisfied, your money will be refunded promptly.

So look forward to sleep at night and freedom from anxiety by day. Get Primatene, today!

Break-In Attempt Halted By Marshal

TABLE ROCK, Neb.—Two men were discovered by Town Marshal Kenneth Coolen while they were attempting to break into the James Oil Co.

County Sheriff Leland Hunzeker of Pawnee City said Coolen surprised the two about 3 a.m. as they were attempting to enter the station. He ordered the men to put up their hands, but they jumped into a nearby car. Coolen opened fire but was unable to stop them.

Sheriff Hunzeker warned south-

High Court Agrees To Rule On Nebraska Rail Case

'Right-To-Work' Law Involved

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court Monday agreed to rule whether the Federal Railway Labor Act's union shop amendment supersedes state "right-to-work" laws as applied to railroad workers.

The federal act's amendment permits unions and railroads to make agreements requiring workers to become union members. State "right-to-work" laws generally prohibit such agreements.

The high tribunal had been asked to give the ruling in two appeals cision involved employees of the Union Pacific Railroad. Sixteen unions, including the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor, filed the appeal.

'Ineffective' Here

The Nebraska Court said the Union Pacific and the unions could not enforce a contract that required employees to join a union in order to hold their jobs. It ruled the Railway Labor Act's union shop provision was ineffective in Nebraska in view of a 1946 amendment to the state constitution. The amendment says no person may be denied a job because he refuses to join a union.

"We think," the Nebraska court said, "Congress was without authority to impose upon employees of railroads in Nebraska, contrary to our state constitution, the requirement that they must become members of a union as a condition for their continued employment."

Livestock, Ag Session Set For Fremont

FREMONT, Neb. (AP)—Nebraska Livestock Feeders Assn., will sponsor a livestock and agricultural conference in Fremont Dec. 16.

The association said the meeting will take up current agricultural problems and various proposed remedies.

Invitations have gone to livestock feeders, producers and farmers in Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota, Missouri and Kansas, Don F. Magdanz, association secretary treasurer said. Businessmen also have been invited.

Magdanz said Nebraska Congressmen Harrison, Miller and Chase have indicated they will be present. Rep. Hope (R-Kan) has also been invited.

Harrison and Hope are members of the House Agriculture Committee.

A representative from the U. S. Department of Agriculture also has been urged to attend, Magdanz said.

Hog Calling Judges Blindfolded

These three women weren't kidnapped or "taken for a ride," they were judges for the Odell, Neb., hog calling contest. The blindfolds were so they could not see the callers. The Odell Commercial Club sponsored the contest, then brought 25 hogs from area farmers paying $3 per hundredweight over market price of the previous day in a protest against declining hog prices. Left to right, are Mrs. Abbie Hubka, Mrs. Arthur Cacek and Mrs. Elmer Maatsch. H. M. Sapp won the hog calling competition. (Star Staff Photos).

Lincoln Trucker Unhurt In Crash

WACO, Neb.—A Lincoln bakery truck driver, Harold Siffring, 32, escaped injury as his truck overturned on Highway 32 west of Waco. An icy road was blamed for the mishap.

An investigation disclosed Siffring lost control of his truck, which left the highway and landed on its side in the ditch.

Wheatgrowers Post Goes To Thompson

Judge Fay Pollock Files Again For 9th District

Fay H. Pollock of Stanton filed with the Secretary of State Monday for nomination to another term as judge of Nebraska's Ninth Judicial District.

The district embraces Knox, Pierce, Antelope, Madison, Wayne, Stanton and Cuming counties.

Pollock was appointed district judge in 1942 and was elected in 1944, 1948 and 1952.

Lyle E. Jackson of Neligh, second incumbent in the two-judge district, also has filed for re-election.

Carolina Action Deferred
The court, however, granted a hearing only on the Nebraska appeal. It deferred action in the North Carolina case.

The Nebraska Supreme Court decided that state's law superseded the federal act. The North Carolina Supreme Court reached a decision directly opposite. It said the Railway Labor Act superseded "any state statute" that conflicted with the federal law.

Red Architect Claims He Was Victim Of Plot

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet architect Alexander V. Vlasov accused the U. S. and French police Monday of organizing a plot against him during his recent trip abroad. He also accused two American reporters in Moscow of crudely distorting the recent Soviet government decree which criticized his work.

In an interview with the official Communist party newspaper Pravda, Vlasov said the trip of his builders' delegation to the United States impressed the ordinary American public with the chances of improving Soviet-American relations.

"This did not please those circles trying to hamper these links," Vlasov said. "They determinedly sought a cause to poison the atmosphere which was being created as the result of the exchange of delegations between the Soviet Union and the United States."

Asked To Stay
Vlasov said there were demonstrations both in the United States and France urging him not to return home after reports were published that he was criticized by the party and government. The Soviet Union already has protested to Paris that French police tried to persuade Vlasov to seek asylum. Vlasov was criticized in the preamble to the recent decree on architecture for permitting extravagances in building when he was head of the former Soviet Academy of Architecture. Vlasov heads a new Academy of Building and Architecture. Last Saturday he was elected to a 21-man presidium of the Union of Architects, though not to a top post.

The architect singled out The Associated Press and the New York Times for criticism. He said their correspondents' dispatches "crudely distorted" the decree signed by Premier N. A. Bulganin and party chief N. S. Khrushchev. He complained that they erroneously reported Vlasov had been deprived of his decorations and dismissed from his post.

Gross Distortion
LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Foreign Office press department summoned two American correspondents in Moscow Monday and told them they committed "gross distortions" in dispatches concerning a Communist party and Soviet government decree on architecture dated Nov. 10.

Leonid F. Ilyichev, head of the press department, complained of dispatches sent by Richard K. O'Malley of the Associated Press and stripped of their awards and fired. The decree did, however, identify him as a "former" chief architect of Moscow, and there had been no announcement of his release from that job.

Machine Better At Resurface Job
A smoother and more efficient job of resurfacing city streets was promised with the purchase of a new asphalt spreader from the Anderson Equipment Co., Inc., for $1,700.

Public Works Director D. L. Erickson said that on the small jobs done by the street department, the asphalt work in the past has been a manual job with smoothness determined by the workmen.

The new machine, he said, will guarantee a smooth surface and will perform a faster job.

Also approved by the City Council was a $9,000 estimate for purchase of fifty gate valves and $9,000 for electrical conductors, both for stock purposes for the utilities.

A $2,100 estimate was approved for purchase of a two-ton truck for the light department.

A Warning
"Such behavior is incompatible with the normal state of affairs and can only compromise the American agencies and papers represented by the above-mentioned correspondents," Ilyichev was quoted. He warned the reporters that if there were similar future occurrences "the Soviet organs would take corresponding measures."

The warning came at a time when Moscow's newspapers were displaying anger at the Western press in general for quotations attributed to party boss N. S. Khrushchev in his current tour of Burma.

AP's Moscow bureau sent a dispatch Nov. 9 quoting a decree of the Central Committee as having fired Vlasov and stripped him of his decorations. A text of the decree showed, however, that Vlasov was criticized only in the preamble, and that he was not among architects specifically mentioned in the decree as having been

POSTCARD

There has been a fair amount of excitement in Tunbridge Wells this last week.

"Uncle" Alfred Crundwell passed to his reward leaving 2781 pounds which will be paid down to 1240 after English taxes. This has given the townsfolk a satisfying gloomy view of the mortality of us all.

"Ah, Alfred," said the barman at the Swan, "e nipped about like you or I and then suddenly 'e just fyded aw'y."

"How old was Mr. Crundwell?" I said.

"Alfred? A nipper 'e was, only 104."

For a week, the great Common has been raked by blue-coated policemen, their breathing steaming the chilly air beneath the oaks as they searched for a missing lady.

The elderly lady failed to return to her hotel for tea and authorities have been poking in the fern-like brown bracken. There has been great speculation in town that the lady had been scragged by some Jack the Ripper.

But today they located her, apparently dead of quite natural causes, not far from the hotel.

Still, the end of life is a somber thing. And it has caused comment.

"Cor, imagine it 'appenin in Tunbridge Wells," sighed the lady in the tea room.

The London papers arrive late at Tunbridge Wells. But we are happy to get them. The most interesting item today is the lovelorn advice of "Singapore Uncle Joe".

"I am an Indian, aged 19, and I'm in love with a 15-year-old Eurasian school girl. I fell in love with her when she was 13 but was forced to break off recently.

"The reasons for this are (1) she does not seem to care for me of late; (2) she has started to mix up with a set of bad girls; (3) she thinks she can boss everybody; (4) I am afraid I shall interfere with her studies and thus cause her to be humiliated by her friends.

"Also I have a suspicion that she thinks I love someone else.

"What shall I do?"

Uncle Joe replies: "I am getting rather fed up with people who keep writing on both sides of the paper as you have done. The next time anybody does this, I am going to throw his letter in the wastebasket and say nothing."

The New York correspondent of the London Evening Standard reports that Americans spend an average of four pounds each a year on automatic vending machines. About $11.20.

"Is it true, sir, in America you eat from machines?" said the tea-room waitress.

"Sometimes."

"I should like to go to America. Imagine putting in a couple of bob and out comes chicken soup, baked beans, spaghetti, sandwiches cake and ice cream."

"Where do you get that?"

"Why everywhere in America, sir. It says so in the paper. You can even spray yourself with perfume and for 1 and 9 pence you get a cure for hanger if you

$20 Ring Missing After Breakin

A class ring valued at $20 was reported missing following a burglary of the National Garages parking lot at 9th and O St. Manager George Brown, 511 Eastborough, reported a window in the basement of the building was broken to gain entrance. Except the ring, nothing else was known missing.

But they've found a way. They've a machine now will take one dollar notes and give you back the change. It's a wonderful country what with machines doing all for you. Better than here at home."

"I think I'd better go home," I said. "I must have been away too long. Home was never like this."

Proteins Needed

WASHINGTON (INS) — A diet which is low in protein may lead to a tired body and a slowing down of the mind. This was reported recently by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago Board of Health. Dr. Bundesen said that a shortage of protein reduces energy and endurance. A continued shortage of protein, which provides the body's "building blocks," would permit the body to destroy itself.

Quick Action To Settle Tax Matters Urged

By ROY CAMPBELL
Star Staff Writer

The state tax commissioner called Monday for speedy action in getting the state's tax matters settled.

This could be done either through a special session of the Legislature or through a ruling by the Nebraska Supreme Court, he said.

Making the suggestion was Fred A. Herrington. He spoke to the fifth annual meeting and tax conference of the Nebraska Citizens Council, Inc., meeting in Lincoln. He said the tax matters presently must be solved before the March 1 assessment deadline.

Inventory Tax Opinion

The course of settling the tax situation was blocked, Herrington said, by a ruling of the attorney general that the average annual inventory tax law passed by the last Legislature is unconstitutional.

The attorney general's opinion said that because some taxpayers still pay on property owned on assessment date, the law lacks uniformity, grants immunities and privileges to certain groups, and is consequently unconstitutional.

Herrington said the law was designed to assess some business on avoiding an unequitable taxation on some who have unusually large inventories on the assessment date.

Gov. Victor Anderson told the some 200 at the conference he felt his budget increase recommendations were justified "for the best interest of the people." He pointed out that $2 million of the increase suggested was for a mental health program, which he said is becoming one of the best in the U.S.

NU Fund Hike

The governor said he recommended a fund increase to the University of Nebraska because "I do feel if we're going to have a university, we should have a good one."

Anderson said 747 miles of new blacktop and concrete highways will be built in the next two years, made possible by the extension of the six-cent gas tax. The governor concluded: "The people are willing to pay for good roads."

Earlier, in an address to the conference, R. M. Armstrong, executive director, pointed out that all taxes took 26 per cent from Nebraskans in the past year. He said city schools accounted for more than half of all taxes paid by city taxpayers in 1954.

School Tax Jump

School taxes in Lincoln jumped from $4.7 million in 1954 to $5,280,000 during 1955. This represents a tax hike of 12.1 per cent, Armstrong said.

The executive director said "One of the weakest points in the Nebraska educational system has been the small high school." He said that because of the low teacher-pupil ratio and the relatively high fixed costs, the high schools with low enrollments have had the highest school costs.

The conference re-named council trustees and one new one. Re-elected were Tom Leadly, Lincoln; Guy L. Cooper, Humboldt; W. D. Hoffer, Jr., Omaha; Ralph A. Baker, Valentine, and M. S. Hevelone, Beatrice. The new trustee named was George T. Wruick, Omaha.

5 Teen-Aged Girls Face Adult Trial In Matron Slaying

AKRON, O. (INS)—Judge Russell Thomas ruled Monday that five teen-aged delinquent girls who killed a detention home matron during an escape attempt be tried as adults. He held them to the County Grand Jury on first-degree murder charges.

The ruling opened the path to death in the Ohio Penitentiary electric chair should the Grand Jury indict them and they be convicted of first-degree murder.

According to the Akron police, the five teen-agers admit beating 59-year-old Eula Bonham and stuffing an ammonia-soaked rag down her throat, causing her to strangle, when they fled from the Akron Detention Home Nov. 27. All were re-arrested within 24-hours.

Red Shield Breakin

A breakin at the Red Shield Club, 27th and Pottel, was being investigated by police Monday. Ben Kermmoade, 3243 Dudley, of the Club, said entrance was gained through a window in the back of the club. A screen was cut. A cigar box was taken from an unlocked desk in the office.

Decker 'Personally Opposed' To Federal Education Money

Nebraska's Commissioner of Education, Freeman B. Decker, announced Monday he personally is opposed to federal aid to education generally.

Decker made the statement before the fifth annual tax conference of the Nebraska Citizens Council, Inc., meeting in Lincoln, during a summary of the recent White House Conference on Education.

Decker followed on the speaker's program Dr. Arthur Bestor, constant critic of educational methods today, from the University of Illinois. Bestor was the featured speaker at the luncheon.

Bestor said educational agencies, such as the National Education Association, and the government were working as a bureau cracy conspiracy in "directing the whole of American education."

'Delaying Tactic'

Decker said the White House conference was a "delaying tactic on the part of a political party, or administration, to try to find out what the people thought about federal aid."

The commissioner said the Nebraska delegation was committed to oppose federal aid to education following the governor's conference on education held at Grand Island. Decker then said he personally was opposed to federal aid.

Decker said he predicted Nebraska will receive about $3.5 million in federal funds for school building construction, and that although the state is generally opposed to federal aid, school boards will be asking for their share.

"But we in Nebraska won't turn down any aid if it is given to us," Decker said. "I will say this for the record," he added.

For Construction

Decker said the federal grant will be for school construction only, and it will be up to his office to decide where the money is needed most.

In his talk, Bestor said too little is being done today in educating for the intellectual approach. He said there are too many "frills" in the present education system.

The history professor said there should be greater stress on the educating in the basic sciences, such as science itself, mathematics, and English. Too much effort is placed, he said, on teaching methods rather than on subject matter itself.

The least needed element in the school systems should be courses on life adjustment, Bestor said. Vocational training is somewhere in between in his listening, he added.

This kind of training, he pointed out, presents the danger of providing a "dumping place" for mediocre students.

The educator, who uses the word "educationists" for non-teaching people in education, said communities should require their schools to account for their spending to determine how many of the programs are "elaborate."

He added, "we should consider it our right to discuss such questions as why Johnny can't read." He said American education "will begin to improve when a level of accomplishment rather than how much is spent," is the deciding factor.

Bestor said most of the opposition to his ideas on education come from the teachers colleges which "have a vested interest." He said, however, he thinks this group "is on the run" and is "gradually changing."

Bestor said federal control of schools "will come with federal aid." This could be whatever it wants to control, he added.

He blamed the present school curriculum over the nation for a recent government report warning that the Soviet Union is turning out more and better scientists than the United States.

Chauncey Barney, former county commissioner in Lancaster County, told the conference he predicted a sharp decline in taxes during the next year, on a county level, because of the coming elections.

Christmas Seal Sales Reach Half Of Goal

Christmas Seal sales, which started Nov. 16 and continue until Christmas, climbed to $11,504.10 or over 50 per cent of the $20,000 goal Monday.

E. S. Wescott, president of the Lancaster County Tuberculosis Association, reported that the $20,000 is needed to finance the association's tuberculosis control program in 1956.

"It becomes more and more important to keep the public informed and on the alert against tuberculosis, as progress in the cure of the disease goes forward," Wescott said.

He also said that as long as there are unknown TB carriers in our population, there will be a need for periodic chest X-rays to spot TB in its early stages before the disease has spread to others and when it is easiest to cure.

The free chest X-ray survey center at 935 R, which is financed by Christmas Seals, is open to the public every Thursday night from 6 to 8 p.m.

Ike's Christmas Tree Up Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 65-foot national community Christmas tree is scheduled to be set up in the President's park, south of the White House, Tuesday.

The tree, brought from the Black Hills National Forest Park in South Dakota, will be ornamented with 8,000 lights and other decorations.

President Eisenhower is due to light the tree Dec. 18 by pressing a switch at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

Bar Association Names Lincolnite Drive Chairman

Word was received in Lincoln Monday on the appointment of John J. Wilson as state chairman in the American Bar Association's campaign for 50,000 new members in the next four months.

E. Smythe Gambrell, Atlanta, Ga., association president, announced the appointment.

"We want every American lawyer to be an active member of the American Bar Association," said Gambrell. "There is no room for snobishness in the national organization of the legal profession. Our profession exists for the benefit of the public and must justify its existence by its service to the public."

The campaign will climax in February when hundreds of recruiting teams make a simultaneous canvass to contact prospective members.

Several thousand of the leading members of the bar in every section of the country will participate in the drive.

Ike Defines Labor Role In Politics

AFL-CIO Hears President Speak

NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower said Monday labor unions have a legitimate interest in politics but should be sure they "accurately reflect" wishes of their members before taking sides.

Eisenhower addressed the founding convention of the merged AFL-CIO by telephone from his Gettysburg, Pa., farm, where he is recuperating from illness.

His voice came through clearly and distinctly to the 1,400 delegates in the 71st Regiment Armory on Park Avenue.

They cheered when AFL-CIO President George Meany, from the hall, introduced the President. They arose and gave another burst of applause at the end of the speech.

What Role?

The President's reference to accurately reflecting views of the rank and file came at a time when there is speculation as to what role the new 16-million member organization will play in the 1956 presidential election.

Both the AFL and the CIO endorsed Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic candidate, in his 1952 campaign against Eisenhower.

Eisenhower told the unionists "the roads you travel, the schools your children attend, the taxes you pay, the standards of integrity in government, the conduct of the public business is your business as Americans."

'Views Vary'

"And while all of you, as to the public business, have a common goal—a stronger and better America—your views as to the best means of reaching that goal vary widely—just as they do in any other group of American citizens."

"So in your new national organization, as well as in your many constituent organizations, you have a great opportunity of making your meetings the world's most effective exhibit of democratic processes."

"In those meetings the rights of minorities holding differing social, economic and political views must be scrupulously protected and their views accurately reflected."

The President appeared to be defining his administration's view of labor's position in the political picture.

Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz) had said the AFL-CIO "has no right" to endorse a presidential nominee. Some other Republicans have accused union leaders of trying to raise a slush fund to gain control of a political party.

George Meany, president of the old AFL, was elected AFL-CIO president, shortly before Eisenhower addressed the convention. Reuther was elected a vice president. William Schnitzer, secretary-treasurer of the AFL, was chosen to continue in the same post in the new organization.

ALL OF THE TOWN SEEMS BUSY WITH PLANS

THINGS to be expected anytime now; Christmas wreaths on the doors, Christmas candles in the windows, out-of-breath last minute shoppers — and Christmas trees—There are two schools of thought on the Christmas tree—Some hold to the idea of placing the tree and trimming it on Christmas Eve—a particularly effective custom when there are small-ry—The other school wants the Christmas spirit to manifest itself several days before Christmas, and are ready to discard it as soon as holiday week is over—But the most exciting of the Christmas fun involves Christmas plans—and this morning we have some to tell.

HEAR that Chaeclor and Mrs.

Clifford Hardin and their family will be in town for Christmas, but will leave immediately afterward for Indiana where they will divide their time between Mrs. Hardin's parents in Indianapolis — and Chancellor Hardin's parents in Knightstown which is just a convenient 45 miles from Indianapolis.

WE knew that Mrs. W. E. Hardy would remain in Lincoln for the Christmas holiday, but we wondered how soon afterward she would be leaving for warmer climes—Mrs. Hardy is cogitating. High on the list of possibilities for the winter months, however, is Hawaii—and Mrs. Hardy almost has decided that is where she will go—after a brief stay in Mexico City.

WONDERED if Richard de Brown, who came from New York to spend Thanksgiving with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank de Brown, would be returning for Christmas. We learned that he is not. Mr. de Brown, who is associated with the radio and television branch of the N.W. Ayers Advertising Agency, with offices in Rockefeller Center, will be too busy to leave New York.

GAVE a thought to Mrs. L. R. Doyle, who is in Dublin, and the possibility that she might return home for Christmas — Mrs. Doyle, however, plans to remain in Ireland and though we had heard that perhaps her daughter, Miss Mary Doyle, might fly over to join her mother for the holiday season, we have reason to believe that such is not the case—Miss Doyle is busy understudying in New York.

BUT the Lincoln members of the Doyle family are to be the Christmas day guests of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Doyle and their family. The guest list will include Mr. Doyle's grandmother, Mrs. T. J. Doyle; his aunt, Mrs. P. Rolfe Halligan, and his uncle and aunt, Capt. T. J. Doyle (Ret.) and Mrs. Doyle of Bristol, Tenn.

SOMEONE told us that Mrs. O. J. Jung will spend the Christmas holidays in Washington D.C. where she will be the guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jung.

AND all of our chatter about New York City and Washington reminds us that Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Frazier returned home from New York on Sunday evening after a stay there of nearly two weeks—business for Mr. Frazier—definitely pleasure for Mrs. Frazier.

YOU will be interested in the news that Mrs. Lincoln Kilbourne and her three daughters, Lisa, Lindsay and Clarke, formerly of Columbus, O., are to be residents of Lincoln. At present Mrs. Kilbourne and her daughters are the guests of Mrs. Kilbourne's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Pace Woods, but within a few weeks the family will be settled in their new home at 2712 Manse.

Mrs. Woods and her three granddaughters arrived last Thursday from Columbus, and Mr. Woods and Mrs. Kilbourne arrived in Lincoln on Monday.

NO dawn would be complete without its news of brides-elect—and the current morning brings more tidings of courtesies for the popular Lincoln girls who are to be brides of December—and late winter.

On Wednesday evening when Miss Cynthia Henderson is a hostess at the home of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Henderson, the party will honor Miss Libby Russell, whose marriage to Larry Dunning will be solemnized on Friday, Dec. 16—and Miss Janet Healey, who is to marry David Weber on Jan. 21. Miss Henderson has invited 16 guests for a dessert supper and a doo-dad shower for each of the brides-to-be.

ON Friday Miss Russell will again be an honoree when Mrs. Lyle Holland and her daughters, Mrs. Donald Bloom and Miss Lynn Holland, are hostesses at a small and most informal coffee at the home of Mrs. Holland. Only the members of the families will be included in the guest list.

BUT Miss Russell is to be a hostess herself on Saturday—twice, in fact—The first party is a coffee for which she and her mother, Mrs. Richard A. Russell, will be hostesses at their home between the hours of 10 o'clock and 1 o'clock—and the second affair is an afternoon courtesy for another bride-elect, Miss Janet Healey—

THIS also is a busy week for Miss Phyllis Colbert, judging from the calendar — On Wednesday evening Miss Colbert will be complimented when Mrs. Perry Branch and her daughter, Mrs. John Boman are hostesses at the home of Mrs. Branch. Eighteen guests have been invited for an informal evening.

WE already have mentioned the tea for which Mrs. Glenn Johnston, Mrs. Larry Becker and Mrs. Fred Aldrich are to be hostesses on Thursday afternoon in courtesy to Miss Colbert—

And on Thursday morning Mrs. Fred Putney will honor the soon-to-be bride when she entertains 16 guests at a coffee between the hours of 10 o'clock and 11:30 o'clock at her home. Miss Colbert will be presented with a hostess gift.

December Brides-Elect Honored

Miss Myrlen Coppinger, who will become the bride of Duane E. Shrader on Dec. 17, has announced the members of her bridal party.

Miss Coppinger has named as her maid of honor Miss Thelma Firestone, and her bridesmaids will be her sister, Miss Joyce Coppinger, and her fiancée's sister, Miss Diane Shrader. Mrs. Dick Sievers will be the bridesmatron, and lighting the candles preceding the 8 o'clock ceremony, which will take place at Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church, will be Miss Donna Shrader, also a sister of the bridegroom-elect, and Miss Sharon Brumbaugh. Miss Susan Boesiger will be flower girl.

Serving as best man will be Larry York, and seating the guests will be Dick Sievers, Henry Duling, Jr., and Vincent Brumbaugh. Frankie Brumbaugh will be ringbearer.

Another popular December bride-elect who will be honored

Thursday evening is Miss Donna Stephenson who will be presented a kitchen and linen shower at the home of Mrs. Kermit Johnson. Assisting Mrs. Johnson as hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Harld McGraw and Miss Betty Parks.

Miss Stephenson was the honoree last Friday evening at an informal shower at which a group of friends entertained at a no-hostess affair at the home of Mrs. Les Black.

The marriage of Miss Stephenson and Charles J. Parks will be an event of Wednesday, Dec. 23, and will be solemnized at 5 o'clock in the afternoon in the chapel of Westminster Presbyterian Church.

Miss Margaret Zimmerman has announced that her marriage to Robert E. Gilmore will take place on Monday evening, Dec. 26.

As her matron of honor and only attendant for the 7 o'clock service, which will be solemnized at Calvary Lutheran Church, Miss Zimmerman has chosen Mrs. James H. Rickman.

Gerald McCracken will serve Mr. Gilmore as best man.

The bride-to-be will be honored on Saturday evening at a kitchen shower to be held at the home of Mrs. Omar Seymour. Co-hostess with Mrs. Seymour for the informal affair will be Mrs. James Pickard of Grand Island.

DAR Group Has Carol Program

The junior members of Deborah Avery Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met for an old-fashioned program of Christmas music Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John A. Brown III.

Following a dessert luncheon, a program of organ music was presented by Mrs. Brown, and the group sang carols and spent the remainder of the afternoon informally.

John Bottorff, Mrs. Robert Hilyer and Mrs. Jerry Duling, president of the group. Seated at the organ is Mrs. Brown.

Medical Auxiliary Doll Project

Completing their annual Christmas project Monday afternoon were the members of the Lancaster County Medical Auxiliary who met for a sandwich luncheon at the Orthopedic Hospital.

The club's regular games day will be held Tuesday afternoon, beginning at 1 o'clock, in the recreation room of Holy Trinity Church, Episcopal.

Also meeting on Tuesday will be the officers wives of the 372nd squadron who will be entertained at a 1 o'clock dessert at the home of Mrs. Joseph Hull, 1931 Connie Rd.

Betrothal Announced

MISS HELEN TONKINSON

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Tonkinson of Malcolm this morning are announcing the betrothal of their daughter, Helen, to Harold Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith of Nicoma Park, Okla.

No definite date has been set for the wedding.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sherman Adams, No. 1 aid to President Eisenhower, told the National Watershed Congress Monday night he hopes the administration will have a national water policy ready for Congress next year.

But Adams cautioned that the government must not be required to do what people can do better for themselves.

"There is one principle element of such policy, so far as this ad-

Barton H. Kuhns will discuss gifts to minors and John C. Mason, Lincoln, income in relation to decedents. Hale McCown, Beatrice will discuss 1955 returns and John E. North, Omaha, tax consequences of divorce.

Corporation tax problems will be discussed by Laurens Williams, Omaha, assistant to the secretary of the treasury, and the entire panel will discuss pension and profit sharing plans, tax rulings, regulations and developments.

Church Organist Mrs. Sylvester Dies

Mrs. Lena Sims Sylvester of 2778 Randolph died Monday at a local hospital at the age of 64.

Funeral services will be at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at Wadlow's Chapel the Rev. Calvin Ukena officiating.

She was born Dec. 25, 1870 at Lancaster, Wis.

Mrs. Sylvester came to Lincoln seven years ago from Washington, D. C. where she was organist and choir director of the Petworth Methodist Church and the Takoma Park Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Sylvester was a member of Westminster Presbyterian Church and the American Guild of Organists.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Barbara C. Miller of Lincoln and five grandchildren.

ministration is concerned, to which we are irrevocably committed," he said.

"While the federal government is and ought to be, the voice of all the people, yet it cannot and should not vicariously exclude the local residual interests of those who live in the nation's watersheds.

'Partnership' Cited

"In the planning and execution of a national water policy, and development and construction of pursuant projects, in providing for conservation and utilization of water the interest of the state, the region and the locality as well as of the people should be taken into account. This is the very heart of what we have chosen to call the policy of partnership.

Adams was principal speaker at the Congress' annual banquet. Fred Seaton, deputy assistant to the President, spoke briefly. Raymond McConnell, editor of the Lincoln, Neb. Journal was toastmaster.

Frick's Attempt To Get Baseball TV Test Fails

By JACK HAND
CHICAGO (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick revealed Monday he had "the rug pulled out from under me" by the government in an attempt to set up a test case of a proposed rule governing radio and television broadcasts of games.

Engineers Will Play Bowl Game

ATLANTA (AP)—Georgia's Board of Regents Monday rejected Gov. Marvin Griffin's move to have Georgia Tech's football team pulled from the Sugar Bowl on a racial issue and opened the way for non-segregated games played outside the South.

At the same time, it closed the door on any further bowl games, played in the South, which do not follow the segregation laws and customs of the host state.

This was a direct slap at the Sugar Bowl officials who not only invited Pittsburgh, a team with a Negro player, to meet Tech, but also let Pittsburgh sell its tickets on a non-segregated basis.

Shortly before the regents acted, Griffin had backed down somewhat on his Friday demand for a racial policy that not only would have barred Tech from the Sugar Bowl but would have prohibited any Georgia state college teams from playing against Negroes or before unsegregated spectators.

The governor told his news conference that his request to the regents chairman, Robert O. Arnold of Covington, was aimed only at the Sugar Bowl and that he would not oppose non-segregated games played in states where segregation is not practiced.

A storm of controversy was touched off by the governor's move, which led to a noisy, all-night demonstration Friday by Tech students who burned Griffin in effigy, smashed into the state Capitol and were restrained by a cordon of police from storming the governor's mansion.

The regents did not vote directly to permit Tech to carry out its Sugar Bowl contract. They merely adopted the resolution of policy applying to any future contracts.

But to make the situation clear, Arnold commented at the meeting closed, "There should be no further doubt that Tech will play in the Sugar Bowl."

The policy resolution, approved by a 14-1 vote was prepared by the regents' Education Committee, headed by Charles J. Bloch of Macon, an ardent advocate of segregation.

It provides that in all athletic contests played in Georgia, the state's laws which prohibit racial mixing must be observed.

And it declares that in future contests outside the state, teams of Georgia state colleges "shall respect the laws, customs and traditions of the host state."

That means that in states outside the South, Georgia teams can play opponents having Negroes of before non-segregated spectators, because laws and customs of those states do not require segregation.

But the resolution adds, "No contract or agreement shall be entered into for an athletic contest in any state where the circumstances under which it is fulfilled are repugnant to the laws, customs and traditions of the host state."

National Loop Crowds Drop
CHICAGO (AP)—The National League Monday announced its official attendance figures for 1955 totaling 7,674,412, a 4 per cent decrease from the 1954 total of 8,013,519. The decline was 339,103 paid admissions.

Philadelphia showed the largest increase, up 183,895 paid, while Chicago and Brooklyn also did better at the gate. The New York Giants fell off 330,955, the sharpest dip. Others who dropped below their 1954 totals were St. Louis, Milwaukee, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh.

Milwaukee led the majors with plenty to spare on a total of 2,005,336, its second successive year over the two-million mark. In the last three years the Braves have drawn 5,963,621 at County Stadium. Brooklyn was the biggest attraction on the road as they ran away with the pennant, drawing 1,616,907 as a visiting club. The Giants were next best with 1,198,868 on the road as compared to 824,112 at the Polo Grounds.

Average attendance for night games in the league was 15,108 and Sunday doubleheaders averaged 19,003 paid.

Frick told a press conference, called to receive copies of a fact-finding survey on baseball, that the Department of Justice had decided not to go along with baseball's plans for a test case.

He said he got the final word Nov. 25 just before he was to leave New York for the Columbus, Ohio, minor league meetings.

The commissioner took great pains to make sure that his remarks would not be construed as a "gripe" against the government. "We had an idea, but it just didn't work out," he said. "We'll have to come up with something else."

For years the minors, and some of the major league clubs, have been after the commissioner to try to get some positive ruling from Washington so that baseball could have "ground rules" to follow in formulating a definite policy on radio and TV.

The majors had a rule restricting such broadcasts several years ago, but it was repealed on advice from the Justice Department that it might be illegal.

Radio-TV Ban
The minors do have a radio-TV rule that bans commercial broadcasts outside a club's home (50-mile radius) territory. At the Columbus meetings, the minors passed an amendment that would increase the "home" territory limit from 50 to 75 miles and asked the majors to go along. A similar proposal last year was rejected by the majors, and apparently is doomed again.

Frick outlined baseball's thinking in the test case situation as follows these lines:

"Why don't we pass a rule which we think is reasonable and fair and you (Justice Department) will sue us immediately and get an injunction that will stop the rule from operating and thus avoid any possibility of triple damage suits by individual states."

"Then, by mutual agreement, we would go to a court where the calendar is not crowded. The losing side would carry it to the Supreme Court and we could establish some sort of ground rules."

"We had several conferences, Frick said, but they notified us a week ago Friday they were not able to go through with it. I have no idea what their reasons were. We'll just have to try something else."

Visits Press Room
Frick visited the press room while the American and National Leagues were holding separate sessions. They were buzzing along through their agenda, raising the possibility that they will finish their business sooner than scheduled.

On the trading front there was a report that Washington and the New York Yankees were negotiating a trade involving Maury McDermott, Washington left-handed pitcher. According to the gossip, the Yanks would get eight players from Washington, all but two destined for the minor leagues, and the Senators would get seven from the Yanks, most of them prospects from the minors.

Elect Yawkey
The American elected Tom Yawkey, Boston president, as league vice president succeeding the late Clark Griffith and re-elected Connie Mack as honorary vice president. Yawkey also was re-elected to the executive council with Chuck Comiskey, Chicago vice president, again serving as alternate.

Hank Greenberg, Cleveland general manager, resigned as league representative on the player-pension committee.

Honus Wagner Dies At 81
PITTSBURGH (AP)—John (Honus) Wagner, generally rated as baseball's greatest shortstop, died Tuesday at his home in nearby Carnegie. He was 81.

The bandy-legged, barrel-chested Dutchman, considered in some baseball circles the greatest player of all time, had been in ill health for the past several years.

Wagner finished a 21-year major league career in 1917 with a lifetime batting average of .329. Many of his National League records still stand almost 40 years later. He played in the most games—2,785; had the most times at bat—10,427; made the most total hits—3,430; most one base hits—2,431; most doubles—648; most triples—250; batted .300 or better for 17 consecutive years; led the league in hitting for eight years; and stole six bases in a World Series.

'Not Washed Up' Charles Maintains
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Aging Ezzard Charles, waiting to take on young Tony Hall here Tuesday night, refuses to concede he no longer is in the heavyweight title picture.

Charles, now 34, says he's definitely aiming for another crack at the title he lost to Joe Walcott, and not just taking fights here and there to pick up a few dollars.

"When I'm washed up, I'll know it and quit," he said.

Stewart's 35 Points New Record Texas Tech Beaten By Missouri 92-60

COLUMBIA, Mo., (AP)—Norman Stewart set a scoring record of 35 points for Missouri Monday as the Tigers whipped Texas Tech 92-60. Stewart made 14 field goals to break another record held by Bob Reiter, who made 12 fielders in six different games.

Stewart, 6-4 senior forward, surpassed the previous mark of 33 points set by Reiter in 1933 against Oklahoma and again last year against Houston.

Missouri actually won the game in the first half with a rugged defense and a fast-break offense, taking a 51-20 lead. Texas Tech couldn't get in for its favorite close shots and had to bang away from long range, making only 18.7 per cent of the shots good.

The Texans slowed Missouri with a pressing defense in the second half and also began hitting. They finished with a 31.1 per cent average on field shots, while Missouri's was a phenomenal 58.3 per cent.

Baylor Takes Coach Duties From Sauer
WACO, Tex. (AP)—Baylor, which has just finished a disappointing football season, Monday elevated Sam Boyd, an assistant coach, and made George Sauer athletic director only.

Sauer, a former University of Nebraska All-American, who came here from Navy in 1950 to replace the resigned Bob Woodruff, was finishing his sixth year and had a five-year contract to go. He had held the dual position of athletic director-head coach.

Boyd, end coach of the Golden Bears, is one of the most famous names in Baylor football annals. He was half of the great passing combination of Billy Patterson-Sam Boyd that made history in the 1938 season. He was All-Southwest Conference for two years, played in the East-West game of 1939, was in professional football with the Pittsburgh Steelers and for four years was Baylor freshman coach. He has been end coach the past two seasons.

Sauer Surprised
Sauer himself was surprised by the announcement that he was to be athletic director only and Boyd was to succeed him. When asked about the report Monday afternoon, he said there would be no announcement until he had conferred with Dr. W. R. White, Baylor president, several hours later.

In the meantime, however, Baylor officials announced the change. While there was no concerted move on to dislodge Sauer as coach, Baylor alumni, particularly in the Houston area, reportedly were very dissatisfied with the situation at their alma mater. Several months ago there was a report out of Little Rock that a petition circulating Sauer's removal was being circulated from Dallas. It never could be learned who was behind this.

Baylor alumni officials said this was an isolated case and came from some irresponsible source.

38-21-3 Record
Sauer's coaching record at Baylor was 38 victories against 21 defeats and 3 ties, in six years. His team finished second in the Southwest Conference in 1950; second in 1951, just one-half game out of first place and playing Georgia Tech in the Orange Bowl; fifth in 1952, third in 1953, tied for third in 1954 and this season tied for fifth.

'No. 1 Choice' Will Answer After Game In Orange Bowl

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star
Nebraska football fans will have an added interest in the 1956 Orange Bowl game, Jan. 2, at Miami, Fla.

On that day the Oklahoma Sooners will meet the Maryland Terrapins, the Norman Conquerors being the Big Seven champs and the Terps winners of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Ordinarily the fact that Oklahoma as Big Seven kingpin would excite only the usual interest in a bowl game. But this year the Orange Bowl has a deeper meaning to Nebraska fans, even more so than it did last year when the Huskers played.

For helping direct the Oklahoma football team, national champions, will be Pete Elliott — Nebraska's choice to succeed Bill Glassford as head football coach.

Pete and his wife, the former Joan Slater of Ann Arbor, Mich., were in Lincoln over the weekend to meet Chancellor Hardin and talk over the Husker coaching job with Athletic Director Bill Orwig. Monday morning Orwig held a press conference which Elliott attended after missing a plane connection. At that time Orwig said:

"Pete is my No. 1 choice. He is the only one I've contacted. "I have encouraged him to come here."

"I hope when the time comes he will give the answer we are seeking and I have every reason to believe he will."

Thus the Nebraska athletic director laid it on the line. Pete Elliott, Oklahoma backfield coach and one of the rising stars on the American coaching scene, has been offered the Nebraska job as indicated by The Star the day after Glassford resigned.

But although there is every indication that Elliott will accept the position, he hasn't said "yes" yet.

That's because he feels he has an obligation to the University of Oklahoma football team which must tangle with Maryland in the Orange Bowl.

"Oklahoma is my prime consideration right now," Pete said Monday. "Anything I might do to jeopardize our team in the Orange Bowl would not be proper."

It was obvious that Elliott is the man to succeed Glassford, but he felt that saying he had taken the job now might possibly hurt OU's chances against Maryland.

"I'm sorry to be evasive now," Pete said. "But you just don't know how the squad would feel about it. I know that desire and spirit play a tremendous part in football. I know that I would never forget it if we lost in the bowl game and I felt that it had been due to anything I had done."

Orwig explained that he understood and sympathized with Elliott's position and approved of his "great loyalty and sense of obligation to Oklahoma."

While Elliott will wait until Jan. 2 to make his decision final, there seems no doubt as to what the decision is—barring unforeseen circumstances.

Here are a few of the Monday statements:

ORWIG—"When I approach a man about a coaching job I want him to know that he is the No. 1 candidate."

"I also feel that protocol should be followed in these matters and I approached Bud Wilkinson before contacting Pete."

"Pete is the only person I have contacted and I don't plan at present to interview anyone else for the job."

"We have discussed such things as salary, contract, assistants and scholarship. We have covered everything and there will be no other meeting before the Orange Bowl."

ELLIOTT—"My wife and I are here at the request of Bill Orwig to investigate the possibility of my taking the job as head football coach at the University of Nebraska."

"I certainly am interested in the job at the University of Nebraska. I have the highest regard for the school, its tradition and possibilities."

"I don't feel that I am in a position to weigh the values of a decision while our season is not completed. I have to be fair to Oklahoma, myself and all of the people concerned."

"I am not considering another job at this time. There have been some people who have mentioned jobs to me, but I have not been contacted."

"I feel sure that Oklahoma would encourage me to do what was best (take a head coaching job). "I want to go back now and devote all of my time to getting ready for the Orange Bowl."

Orwig also said that a contract had been discussed, but declined to say just what the length of it would be. He indicated that he preferred "more than one year," but "not too long."

That's the situation as of now. Pete Elliott offered the job, Pete Elliott interested in the job and no other candidate. Thus Pete Elliott is the next Nebraska coach and all that's needed is his official okay.

There's every reason to expect that to come on Jan. 2.

GEORGE SAUER

Baylor Takes Coach Duties From Sauer

WACO, Tex. (AP)—Baylor, which has just finished a disappointing football season, Monday elevated Sam Boyd, an assistant coach, and made George Sauer athletic director only.

Sauer, a former University of Nebraska All-American, who came here from Navy in 1950 to replace the resigned Bob Woodruff, was finishing his sixth year and had a five-year contract to go. He had held the dual position of athletic director-head coach.

Boyd, end coach of the Golden Bears, is one of the most famous names in Baylor football annals. He was half of the great passing combination of Billy Patterson-Sam Boyd that made history in the 1938 season. He was All-Southwest Conference for two years, played in the East-West game of 1939, was in professional football with the Pittsburgh Steelers and for four years was Baylor freshman coach. He has been end coach the past two seasons.

Sauer Surprised
Sauer himself was surprised by the announcement that he was to be athletic director only and Boyd was to succeed him. When asked about the report Monday afternoon, he said there would be no announcement until he had conferred with Dr. W. R. White, Baylor president, several hours later.

In the meantime, however, Baylor officials announced the change. While there was no concerted move on to dislodge Sauer as coach, Baylor alumni, particularly in the Houston area, reportedly were very dissatisfied with the situation at their alma mater. Several months ago there was a report out of Little Rock that a petition circulating Sauer's removal was being circulated from Dallas. It never could be learned who was behind this.

Baylor alumni officials said this was an isolated case and came from some irresponsible source.

38-21-3 Record
Sauer's coaching record at Baylor was 38 victories against 21 defeats and 3 ties, in six years. His team finished second in the Southwest Conference in 1950; second in 1951, just one-half game out of first place and playing Georgia Tech in the Orange Bowl; fifth in 1952, third in 1953, tied for third in 1954 and this season tied for fifth.

Robinson, Olson Found In Top Shape For Fight

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
CHICAGO (AP)—A laughing, joking Ray Robinson and a solemn Bobo Olson were given the once over by the Illinois Athletic Commission doctors Monday and found in the pink for their 15-round midweight title bout Friday night.

Challenger Robinson, who at 35 is trying to become the first boxer ever to regain the crown twice, chuckled:

"They found out I could breathe, walk and see. I'm ready all right. And I'm confident. But I'm not going to make any predictions. I never have before any of my other fights, and I'm not going to start now."

Asked about the ankle he injured in training at his Greenwood Lake, N. Y., camp that forced postponement of the fight from Nov. 4, Robinson started humming a tune and broke out with several tap-dancing steps.

"How do I look?" he smiled.

Robinson, who scored a 12-round knockout over Olson in 1950 and took a 15-round decision from him in 1952, is a 2½ to 1 underdog for the Chicago Stadium scrap. It will be home televised (NBC) with Chicago and a 150-mile radius blacked out. Chicago will be included on Champion Olson will receive 35 per cent of the gate and the $75,000 TV-radio package and Robinson 25 per cent.

Needle Olson
George Gainford, one of several official trainers for Robinson, made an apparent attempt to needle Olson before the commission. He asked what would happen if the champion were overweight at the weighing-in ceremonies at Chicago Stadium Friday noon.

Commissioner Lou Radzienda said Olson would have to forfeit his crown on the scales, but added that he would be given two hours to make the 160 pounds.

Olson, who has won decisions from Jimmy Martinez and Joe Giambra since Archie Moore kayoed him in the third of their light-heavy bout in New York June 22, appeared rather glum throughout the proceedings at the commission offices. He chewed gum and never smiled—a study in seriousness.

No Handshake

He didn't even shake Robinson's hand when it was offered. "Guess he forgot I'm two up on him," laughed Robinson. "But he didn't mean no harm. His mind was just somewhere else, I guess."

Olson was reported to weigh 162½. Robinson's corner said he was 160 on the head and that he worked up to this from the 156 pounds he weighed at Greenwood Lake.

Sid Flaherty, Olson's manager, said he was pleased with the champion's physical condition but was a little concerned over his gym drills.

"I don't know if it's change of climate here or not," he said. "But Bobo looks good one day and then the next a little sluggish and with his timing off."

Flaherty has hired Bob Swinburne, a lanky light-heavy from Chicago, for Olson's boxing sessions.

New Spar Mate
"I think Swinburne will make Bobo work a lot harder than he has against Lloyd Triplett (his chief sparring partner)," Flaherty said.

Dr. Vincent A. Nardiello, Sugar Ray's personal physician as well as the New York State Athletic Commission doctor, said that he considered Robinson in top shape, physically and mentally.

"He's trained for 15 fast rounds and he's ready to fight right now," he said.

Navy's Beagle Frustrated Against Army

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP)—Ronnie Beagle, like an eager-beaver plumber who couldn't find a leaky pipe to fix, felt frustrated.

"I felt so useless out there on defense," Navy's All-America end said concerning his part in the Army game. "For the first time in my football career I played through a game without making a tackle."

Before someone jumps to the conclusion that Beagle was missing ball carriers all over the place it might be a good idea to suggest that the reason he didn't make a tackle is that Army avoided the left side of the Navy line, where he and tackle John Hopkins operated. Like it was a poison ivy patch.

No Profit
Other teams, long before had discovered they could make no profit in that direction, but could gain yards on the other side. Notre Dame found it out first, and Duke followed the blueprint.

Beagle, a superbly built 6-footer, probably is the only player in history to make the All-America team playing throughout the season with a broken wrist.

"I hurt it about 10 days before the season started," he explained. "It was just a tiny, hairline fracture, but they put it in a cast for a while. Then they put this leather harness on it," he indicated the brace which ran down to his fingers. "I cut off the end so my fingers would be free to catch passes. They X-rayed it the other day and found there is a clean break there now. Guess I'll have to put it in a cast again."

It was suggested that he should have a pretty good idea of the best team the Middles played this year. He did.

'They Were Higher'
"Notre Dame," he said without hesitation. "The day they played us they could have beaten any team. We were up for the game, but they were up higher."

An idea of how the Irish, who defeated the Middles, 21-7, impressed them might be gathered by the fact the Navy players placed five Notre Dame men on their all-opponent team. Oddly enough, no Army player was chosen, maybe because when you poke a hornet's nest you can't single out any particular one stinging you more painfully than the others.

"Our best game was against Pitt," Beagle continued. Navy won that one, 21-0. "We were particularly impressed by their ends." The all-opponent team again bore him out. The two Pitt ends, John Paluck and Joe Walton, were on it.

'Big, Tough'
"Pitt has a big, tough team," Beagle added. "I think Georgia Tech will have too much speed for them in the Sugar Bowl, but if the field is heavy Pitt might win. They're a rough outfit."

The personable Midshipman, making the All-America the second straight year, is extremely modest about his own accomplishments. He'd rather talk about his teammates.

"I'd rate George Welsh as the best college passer in the country," he said. "Maybe I should qualify that by saying up to 30 yards. He's not so good on the longer ones, but up to 30 yards he's the best."

"And he's a clutch passer. When he has to make it good, he does. And watch that other end, Earle Smith, next year. He was hurt in our fourth game this fall and didn't play again, but he'll be great next year."

Beagle would have liked to play in a bowl game next Jan. 2, and says his teammates had the same ambition. They should speak sharply to those sportsmen up the Hudson who weren't going anywhere themselves and wouldn't let them go.

First Rose Bowl Teams To Attend
PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Brown University will send a football team to the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif., on Jan. 2.

It will be the 1915 team which was defeated 14-0 by Washington State in the Rose Bowl game that started the continuous series 40 years ago.

Just how many members of the 1915 aggregation will make the trip aboard a chartered plane from New York Dec. 23 is not yet certain.

But Brown University said Monday it has been assured that the delegation will include Harold (Buzz) Andrews of Attleboro Falls, Mass., 1915 captain; Dr. Josh Weeks of New Bedford, Mass., end; Dr. Edgar J. (Spike) Staff of Edgewood, R. I., guard; Frederick A. Ballou Jr., of Providence, manager; Fritz Pollard of New York, halfback; and Wallace J. Wade of Durham, N. C., guard.

The Rose Bowl and Tournament of Roses committees will pay the expenses of the 1915 team and their wives, Brown University said, as well as of the Washington State team of 40 years ago.

'Forced' To Fight, Likes Boxing Now

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—A 229-pound Polish heavyweight star who fled to the West said Monday he took boxing lessons only in order to get out of his Communist-ruled country. But, he added, he learned to like it so much that he will keep up the sport when he emigrates to the United States.

Boxer Joseph Bietron told a news conference that he "hated" the Red regime, and that therefore he sought Western asylum when he came to Herford, West Germany, with the Polish national amateur team for a boxing meet last October.

Surprise Test Of U.S., Canadian Air Defense Staged By SAC

Nebraska's Air Guard Takes Part

WASHINGTON (AP)—A surprise test of the U. S. and Canadian air defense systems began late Monday.

(Nebraska Air Guard Units were involved in the mock attack. Capt. Lloyd L. Johnson, administrative assistant in the Guard, said. Local units were called at a time coinciding with the national alert, he said.

(Tactical units — including the 173rd Fighter Interceptor Squadron and the 8173rd Replacement Training Squadron—were the only ones involved, he added. Commanding officer of the state operations was Lt. Col. Fred H. Bailey Jr.

(Johnson indicated the secrecy of the operation by not answering questions about how many men or planes were involved or how long the maneuvers continued. "I can only say most of our pilots were ready," Johnson said.)

Check Tracking

The basic idea behind the test was to check radar tracking and interceptor practice defense under winter conditions. The test exercise was given the name Cracker-jack.

Planes of the U. S. Strategic Air Command played the part of a mythical enemy in attempting to penetrate the air defense setup.

The exercise began about 4 p.m. CST, the Defense Department announced. It was a joint exercise by the U. S. Defense Department and the Canadian Department of National Defense.

Elements of the U. S. Army, Air Force, Navy and National Guard were taking part.

Baby Sitting

A number of the Air National Guard pilots in the Washington area had to bring their young children to Andrews Air Force Base with them because they had been caught baby sitting while their wives were out playing bridge.

A temporary nursery was set up while the fathers took to the air.

Lt. Col. Edward C. Fletcher, commander of the 95th Fighter Interceptor Squadron stationed at Andrews AFB reported his entire outfit was alerted. This includes the 121st Fighter Interceptor Squadron, Harborfield, Baltimore and the 142nd at Newcastel County Airport, Wilmington, Del.

Giles Pleads Guilty 2nd Time In Texas Bribery Charges

CRYSTAL CITY, Tex. (INS) — Former Texas land commissioner Bascom Giles Monday pleaded guilty for the second time to bribery charges in connection with the veterans land program and was sentenced to six-years in prison.

Giles pleaded guilty to agreeing to accept bribes totaling $51,000 to help put through veterans land deals in south Texas which the state alleges were fraudulent. He entered his plea before District Judge Ross Doughty in Crystal City immediately following trial of a civil damage suit against him involving the same transactions, and in which the state was awarded a judgment of $33,000.

The prison term is to run concurrently with a similar six-year sentence assessed against the ex-official in San Antonio for agreeing to accept a $30,000 bribe in connection with another south Texas land transaction.

Testimony in Monday's trial tracked earlier evidence that the state paid huge amounts of money for blocks of land to be resold to veterans under the state program, and that the land was not worth it.

8 University Students, Grads Named To PBK

Six University of Nebraska seniors and two Summer Session graduates have been selected for membership in Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic society.

The new members, introduced at a Phi Beta Kappa dinner meeting Monday night, are:

Seniors

Margaret Eleanor Elliott, daughter of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. John C. B. Elliott of Mineral Wells, Texas.

Janet Lorraine Gordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Gordon of Lincoln.

Gail Rae Katske, daughter of Mrs. Edwin Katske of Lincoln.

Cathryn Ann Olds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Olds of Omaha.

Shirley Jean Rosenberg Rochman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Rosenberg of Lincoln.

Ann Catherine Yeakley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Yeakley of Atlanta, Ga.

August Graduates

Howard Leslie Copas, son of A. L. Copas of Scottsbluff. He is now attending the University College of Medicine in Omaha.

Marvin Irving Friedman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Friedman of Lincoln. He is now doing graduate work at the University.

Phi Beta Kappa membership requirements for first semester seniors are a scholastic average above 7.5, registration in the College of Arts and Sciences, and completion of the group requirements for graduation.

Requirements for Summer Session graduates are the same as for the group which is selected in the spring—a scholastic average of approximately 7.2 and fulfillment of the group requirements in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Scholars Stressed

Dr. A. C. Land, professor of history who came to the University of Nebraska this fall from Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn., was featured speaker at the meeting.

He told the group that as scholars they are specialists and it is up to them to find their relationship to other members of society.

"We are not engaged in the enterprise of perpetuating ourselves," he said. "We are trying to do something for society by contributing to progress."

He said that scholars have to give something to students and other persons with whom they come in contact which will last all their lives. This is not knowledge, he said, but rather an opportunity to acquire culture.

"We must make them responsive to the best things in the culture in which they live," he said. "These people must be put in a position to get culture out of what they do after they complete their formal education, for they will get it from nothing else."

Air Base Gas Line Leased To Operator

The city has removed itself from the natural gas distribution business by leasing its Air Base line to Central Electric and Gas Co.

The city constructed the line in 1948 because it was able to obtain materials not available to other parties. The line originally serviced all airport facilities, including Haskerville.

With reactivation of the Air Base, a new line was built by the government to furnish all Air Force operations. The city line now serves only the Municipal Terminal building and will serve the Naval Air Reserve and Air National Guard.

The line originates at State and O streets. Under the lease, Central assumes responsibility for maintenance of the line and pays the city 2 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas transported through it. The lease is for 10 years.

Ralston Promoted To Lincoln Office

William J. Ralston of Wahoo, work unit conservationist for the Saunders County Soil Conservation District for the past nine years, has been promoted to area conservationist with offices in Lincoln.

He will supervise Soil Conservation Service activities in Butler, Saunders, Sarpy, Cass, Lancaster, Otoe, Seward, Johnson, Nemaha, Richardson and Pawnee Counties. Ralston succeeds D. E. Hutchinson, who will take a position in the state office. A graduate of the University of Nebraska, Ralston was at Albion, Columbus, Spalding, Elgin and Walthill with the SCS before going to Wahoo.

Succeeding Ralston at Wahoo will be Andrew J. Andresen, work unit conservationist for Cumming County now stationed at West Point.

Yes, you actually get

The Thunderbird Y-8 engine in the '56 Ford

And this Thunderbird Y-8 is the standard eight in all Ford Fairlane and Station Wagon models, at no extra cost!

Now you can have the power you've always dreamed about...and in a family-size Ford! When you order an eight-cylinder Ford Fairlane or Station Wagon model you get the Thunderbird Y-8—the very same engine that made Ford's Thunderbird famous.

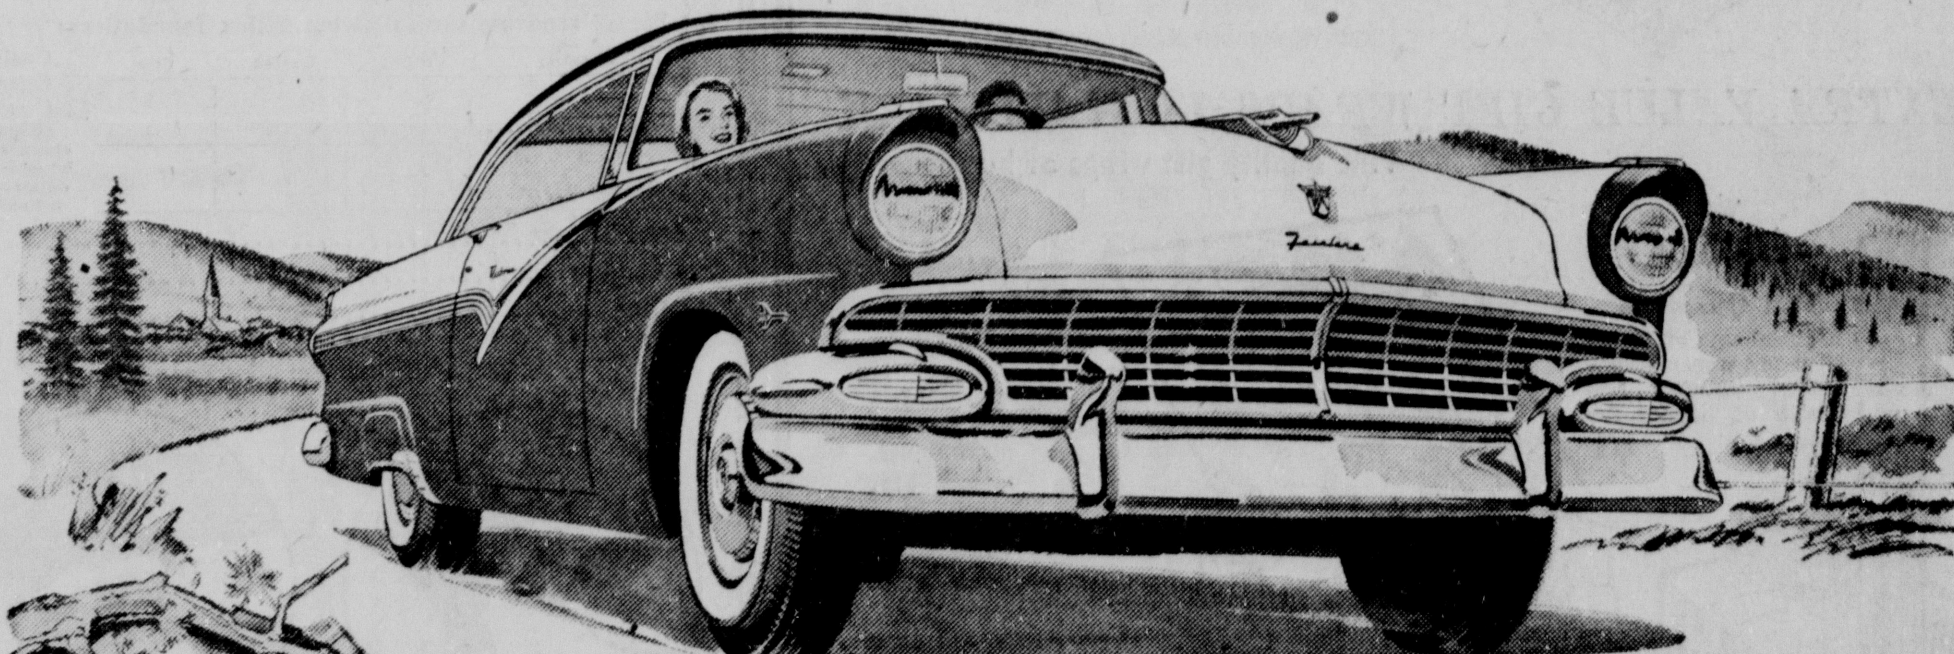

Thunderbird Y-8 power makes uphill feel like downhill...distances disappear. You pass in instants when instants count. And when you want take-off power you get it...and now!

You get a 4-barrel carburetor and dual exhausts. As in all Ford engines, you get a 12-volt ignition system for fast all-weather starts...low-friction, high-compression design for more miles from less gas. And, above all, the new Thunderbird eight is a Y-8 engine with deep-block build for quieter, smoother performance...longer engine life.

In addition to Thunderbird lightning, Ford for '56 offers you the Thunderbird look! In every long, low line—every graceful contour—you can see it's a blood brother of the fabulous Thunderbird, America's most exciting car! What's more, you get Ford's exclusive Lifeguard Design for added protection. Come in and Test Drive the fine car at half the fine-car price.

Try the Thunderbird Y-8 in the fine car at half the fine-car price!

CONSOLIDATED FEDERAL TELEPHONE SYSTEM HERE TO SAVE U.S. $11,000

... Government Official Says At Luncheon

The new consolidated telephone system for federal offices in Lincoln will save the taxpayers about $11,000 annually, according to W. A. Holloway, regional director, General Services Administration.

Inauguration of the new 300-line switchboard was observed at a luncheon Monday at the Chamber of Commerce attended by representatives of the GSA, Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co., and city, county, state and federal offices.

The new switchboard will serve some 30 federal offices, all located in the Veterans Building, Post Office building, or Rudge and Gunzel Building.

Holloway said the general public "will benefit also from the more effective and quicker service" possible by the system, using the single number 5-3273.

A GSA operator can correctly route all calls and the system will speed intra-agency calls, he added.

Merle Hale, LT&T vice-president, noted the company is the first to recommend equipment that will promote more efficient service and conserve tax money.

The City of Lincoln was the first to install the system, Hale said, but the state and county offices are also in the process of installing a consolidated board.

Mayor Clark Jeary commented that the city realized a benefit not only in dollars but one far greater in public service.

The new switchboard, located in the Post Office building, was described as the most modern installed for federal offices in the GSA Regional 6 area, comprising seven states.

The three switchboard operators will be Chief Operator Bertha Reisland of 3721 Washington, Charlotte Shimonek of 1340 J and Geraldine Finke of 1124 N.

40 Algerians Die When French Fire

... VIOLENCE MOUNTS IN NORTH AFRICA

ALGIERS (AP)—French security troops fired on a crowded native market place near the Tunisian border and at least 40 Algerians were killed. The death toll across French North Africa was at least 69. At least 40 were injured.

In addition to the bloody scene on the market square of the town of Lamy, French authorities said that 24 Algerians died elsewhere as a result of rebel assassinations. Lamy is a town of 10,000 inhabitants a few miles inland from the Mediterranean. The market was crowded at 10:30 a. m. when nationalists in the throng fired some shots. A confused melee resulted.

Troops Return Fire

French authorities said local security troops were fired on and replied immediately. Amored cars were called and the town was surrounded.

After the clash, 31 bodies were found. When an Algerian bus leaving the scene was ordered to stop, the passengers inside fired on the

-New Delhi- Anti-U.S. Feeling Boils Up

Indians Call In Yank Envoy For Talk

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—U.S. Ambassador John Sherman Cooper was called to the Foreign Office Monday as resentment flared among Indians over a joint U.S.-Portuguese statement, Anti-American feeling boiled to its highest peak here since the U.S.-Pakistani aid pact was concluded 20 months ago.

Although no announcement was made of the discussions, reports here said Cooper was questioned by Indian officials concerning the statement, issued Friday in Washington by Secretary of State Dulles and Portuguese Foreign Minister Paulo Cunha.

The Dulles-Cunha statement was issued in response to remarks made by Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev on their current tour of India and Burma. Citing "allegations concerning the Portuguese provinces in the Far East," it denounced the Russians' remarks as an attempt "to foment hatred between the East and West."

Incensed
It was the reference to "Portuguese provinces" that incensed Indians. They interpreted this as meaning that the United States considered Portuguese India an integral part of Portugal.

Goa is the largest of three small Portuguese territories on the Indian west coast. Backing the official Indian stand that these areas should be part of the Republic of India, nationalist elements here have been pressing for stronger action to take them over. Goa was the scene of bloody conflicts between Indian demonstrators and Portuguese troops last August.

The Indian government has demanded Portugal give up the colony, but Portugal thus far has refused to do so.

Diplomatic sources said India will protest to Washington over the statement. But Prime Minister Nehru refused to comment in Parliament Monday on the matter. He said he would report on the statement after his government has received "formal confirmation and taken formal steps."

Burma— To Russ Risk Red Violence Tour Insurgent Infested Area

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Soviet Premier Bulganin and party boss Khrushchev visited in the thick of insurgent Communist activity in Burma Monday and then returned to this capital.

At Maymyo, old army headquarters town where they reviewed a crack Burmese brigade, troops were fighting Communist insurgents just a few miles away in a dense jungle.

Only five days ago an insurgent band penetrated Maymyo itself and kidnapped two World Health Organization doctors, one an Italian, from a house hardly 300 yards from where Bulganin and Khrushchev were quartered.

Every House Guarded

Consequently Burmese security forces were especially alert during the Russians' stay. Soldiers with Step guns guarded every house and cordoned off every road which the Russians visited or traveled. All unauthorized movements were halted.

At Maymyo, after reviewing the polished brigade with its glistening equipment, Khrushchev commented:

"The most important task is defending one's own country," Khrushchev said. "I wish your army would have its own officers and soldiers and generals. To achieve this aim, you should have your own military academies and institutions."

(The Foreign Office in London said it had no idea what Khrushchev was talking about, that Britain has not had a training mission in Burma for years.)

He added that "to have an army is a very expensive thing, but we are forced to have an army and incur expense because there are a few countries which still do not agree to disarm."

On hitting at the expense of armament Khrushchev was touching a sore point in Burma. Nearly half the national budget goes to defense.

Said one Burmese official, "we are spending our money on an army, but it's all going to fight insurgents, including Burmese Communist who are attempting to destroy our democratic government."

Mother's Quick Action Probably Saved Child, 4

OMAHA (AP)—A frightened but quick-acting mother pulled her 4-year-old daughter from burning clothes and possible death Monday.

Mildred Ann Mott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Mott, was reported in satisfactory condition later at Children's Memorial Hospital.

The Fire Department said clothes the girl was wearing caught fire from a kitchen oven. She was burned on the upper part of the body and right side of the head.

Mrs. Mott heard her 7-year-old son, Billie Dean, scream and rushed in to find Mildred engulfed in flames.

She tore the blazing pajamas from the girl, burning her own hands.

Curtains were burned and walls scorched when Mrs. Mott hurled the clothes across the room.

Firemen, called by a neighbor, doused the blaze.

Albert Reformatory Plan Said 'Outmoded'

... Morris Statement Blasts Regimentation Of The Individual

Ousted State Reformatory Superintendent George L. Morris Monday charged that the proposed penal program for the institution recommended by Col. B. B. Albert, state penal director, "is an outmoded concept that has no place in present penal thinking."

The prepared statement released by Morris said that Albert's program is a further indication of his inability to understand the basic principles of civil correctional programs.

"A Reformatory program should be designed to promote the growth of the individual inmate; help him develop the social perspective to see himself in proper relationship to society, and allow him to build up his self respect, without which he cannot respect others or the rights of others," the statement said.

Morris charged that Albert is proposing a system of regimentation that ignores the individual and his needs.

"This is a military concept of training a man to obey — not to think," the statement continued.

"More guards, more guns, standardized uniforms and a set of rules to control every action reduces the individual inmate to a non-thinking, institutionalized creature dependent on his superiors for direction. It is an outmoded concept that has no place in present penal thinking and cannot meet the objective contained in Nebraska law," the statement said.

In Nebraska law, Morris said, there is a legal objective — "To return the inmates as self respecting, self supporting members of society."

Among a number of recommendations Albert had suggested for the Reformatory recently were more guards, standardized weapons and uniforms, and a booklet outlining the rules of the institution.

Albert has charged that the Reformatory is "dirty and run down" and needs a "general house keeping."

"I do not believe that Mr. Albert, or the Board of Control can justify the increased cost of institutional operation by presenting an obsolescent program of this type," the statement continued.

Morris continued that during Albert's employment unnecessary costs have been incurred the taxpayers through riots and needless destruction of state property.

Monthly payrolls at the penitentiary and Reformatory have increased by about $10,000. Other expenses have been added that have not come to the attention of the public, he said.

"Never before," the statement said, "has Nebraska paid so much for so little."

Captain Of Radiated Ship Back At Sea

TOKYO (INS) — One of the 22 surviving Japanese fishermen dusted by fallout of an American H-bomb blast went fishing for the first time since the highly radioactive "Lucky Dragon V" limped into a Japanese port in the spring of last year.

He was captain of the ill-fated fishing vessel at the time of the explosion at Bikini atoll on March 1, 1954. He was released with 21 other crew members in May this year after hospitalization for radiation treatment.

Monroe J. Locke Of Hallam Dies

Monroe J. Locke, 57, of Hallam, died Monday at a Lincoln hospital.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Hodgman-Splain, the Rev. Al Piorowski officiating. Burial will be at Lincoln Memorial Park.

Mr. Locke was born at Hallam and had lived there most of his life. He was the operator of a garage there, and a member of American Legion Post 294.

Surviving are his wife, Esther; two sons, Donald F. of Lincoln and Dean J. of Hallam; a daughter, Mrs. Elaine Ainsworth of California; two brothers, Robert of Hallam and Joseph of Lincoln; three sisters, Mrs. Hilda Boller of DeWitt, Mrs. Amanda Ailes of Redwood, Calif., and Mrs. Mary Heller of Hallam; and two grandchildren.

Reds Arrive

BONN, Germany (AP) — A Soviet delegation arrived Monday night to prepare for the early establishment of a Russian embassy in this West German capital.

The five-man advance party rolled into Bonn in a big Russian limousine from Communist East Berlin.

Board Okays Albert's Leave Of Absence

Request for his 60-day leave of absence for "health reasons" has been approved by the Board of Control, B. B. Albert, penal director, said Monday. The leave will start Dec. 16. Whether he returns to the state will depend upon his health.

He took the advisory post last February at a salary of $9,000 a year.

Harold Peterson, administrative assistant to the board, said, "He has done a nice job and given us a lot of help." Peterson said that he could not say whether a replacement would be sought should Albert resign.

Albert is now concentrating his time on the Men's Reformatory and commented that it is "dirty and run down" and needs a "general house cleaning." It has had three superintendents since September.

Albert said that Robert Nichols, present superintendent, is "getting his feet on the ground" but that there are many problems at the institution.

Mrs. Ed Westering Funeral Tuesday

Funeral services for Mrs. Ed Westering will be held at 11 a.m. Tuesday at the First Lutheran Church at 17th & A, the Rev. J. Sabin Swenson officiating.

Burial will be Lincoln Memorial Park.

Mrs. Westering, who was 82, died Sunday. Her home was at 1801 So. 24th.

Denton Youths Admit Schoolhouse Vandalism

Two 16-year-old Denton youths have admitted their involvement in the malicious damaging over the Thanksgiving holiday of the District 136 school house at Denton, according to the Sheriff's office.

The two boys were to report to the Lancaster County Juvenile Office this week.

Approximately $75 in damages were reportedly caused when paint was smeared on the walls and the building ransacked.
